3000 YANK PLANES BLAST BERLIN, TOULON

Greatest U. S. Raid Hits Nazis

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, April 29 (AP)—Two thousand U. S. warplanes smashed at Berlin today with probably the greatest daylight attack in history. Bombers flying from Italy at the same time hit the port and submarine pens of Toulon, France, to cap the 15th day of the pre-invasion onslaught in which Allied aircraft have rained approximately 75,000 tons of bursting and flaming steel upon Hitler territory.

A force approaching 1000 heavy bombers, escorted by as many fighters, flew from British bases to Berlin. The German capital was believed to have caught up to 2500 tons of bombs in the operation, making it perhaps the war's greatest daylight assault.

Fortresses and Liberators from Italy "rained tons" of bombs on the port installations in southern France, an official announcement said. From 250 to 500 heavy bombers were estimated to have taken part in this attack.

The first group of Fortress pilots returning to Britain from Berlin told of some German fighter opposition, but said most of it in their case was cautious and directed against American stragglers. The sky over Berlin was overcast but bombardiers found holes in the clouds and saw big fires as they left the city.

Some of the Berlin fliers set a record, going on their sixth heavy bomber mission in six days.

Crewmen returning from the Berlin run said they had hacked their way through heavy enemy opposition, with German fighters attacking in boxes of 150 to 200 planes.

The German fighters largely held off over Berlin to escape the fire from the capital's own ground defenses, which the Americans said was the most thunderous they ever had encountered.

"Industrial and military targets" were singled out for the daylight assault, which hit the capital city about noon, the U. S. headquarters' announcement said.

In Naples, crewmen returning from today's 15th Air Force attack by 500 to 1000 planes on the port and submarine pens of Toulon said they encountered enemy planes and destroyed several. They told of large fires and explosions at the French port, which suffered its fifth attack from Mediterranean-based Allied planes. Through this port pass supplies for German troops in Italy.

The Berlin radio, whose own operators were thrown into confusion by the blow, acknowledged "serious damage."

Beat Japs on 5 Fronts in Pacific

By J. B. KRUEGER

Allied reports from all quarters today pictured the Jap as taking a beating on the five fronts rimming his inflated empire.

Around Kohima, the Indian city guarding the Assam-Bengal railway supplying Stilwell's troops, Allied forces were reported liquidating enemy strongpoints. Southeast Asia headquarters also said that British and Indian troops were advancing southeast of Kohima, while a superior Allied air arm struck hard in support of ground operations. The general success of the British counteroffensive seemed about to wipe out Jap hopes of seizing Kohima before the heavy rains came in three weeks.

In response to Associated Press inquiries, Southeast Asia headquarters said there was no justification for American uneasiness concerning the invasion of India.

Bengal Gov. R. G. Casey at the same time told a press conference British commanders were confident of Allied ability to blunt the Jap drive on Assam, and eventually throw the invaders back beyond points whence the India campaign was started.

Counter-attacking Chinese troops are fighting in the outskirts of Mihsien, which they are trying to recapture in order to remove the threat to Loyang by the southern claw of the Jap pincers drive, a high command communique said today.

Mihsien is 20 miles southeast of Chenghsien, which is in the hands of the invaders, and 60 miles southwest of Loyang.

Gen. Stilwell's forces took two more villages, putting his Chinese within eight or ten miles of Kamaing, Mogaung valley enemy base. U. S. bombers and fighters set large fires in Myitkyina, key to reopening the Burma road, Stilwell's major objective.

The Hollandia-Aitape invasion was finished. From the new bases in New Guinea Allied planes took off for raids against Sorong on western New Guinea, at Babo to the south, at Wewak's often-hit airdromes, and at Rabaul and Kavieng.

Adm. Nimitz maintained his aerial offensive with strikes against Guam, Truk and Ponape. The Guam raid, April 24, was the first by land-based Army and Navy bombers based in the Marshalls.

Nazi Counter Thrust In Poland Smashed

LONDON, April 29 (AP)—Fresh Axis attacks southeast of Stanislawow in former Poland have been broken, with 800 Germans and Hungarians killed, Moscow announced today, but again reported "no substantial changes" on the eastern front.

The Soviets still were silent concerning the Romanian front, where the Germans declared Russian attempts to break through north of Iasi had been repulsed.

Today's German communique claimed a "full defensive victory" for German troops along the lower Dnestr river. The broadcast declared Russian forces had been repulsed in the Iasi area while Germans mopped up areas previously won southeast of Komel.

Red Army planes struck in massed raids on the big rail junction of Lwow, 65 miles northwest of Stanislawow, Thursday night, bombing concentrations of enemy troop trains, the Soviet war bulletin declared.

On the Crimean front, the bulletin said Soviet naval planes sank a 1000-ton tanker

Invasion
Finland Hears It's On; So Say Captured Fliers

LONDON, April 29 (AP)—Berlin dispatches to Stockholm declared today the invasion of western Europe, practically speaking, began a week ago when the Americans and British threw great numbers of reserve air crews and aircraft into the continuing continental air assault.

The Stockholm Tidningen's Berlin correspondent quoted captured Allied fliers as saying they regarded themselves "as invasion troops and the invasion began for them when they went into action."

The dispatch added:

"German military circles interpret the fliers' statements as meaning the invasion air force now is actually in the fight."

NAZIS READY

The Germans announced their anti-invasion command was ready to go into action and simultaneously Nazi occupation authorities in Denmark suspended telephone communication between Copenhagen and Stockholm for the second time in a week.

A Berlin broadcast gave no details concerning the Nazi anti-invasion command, but the Russian News Agency Tass quoted Stockholm sources as saying that rumors persisted in the German capital that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has replaced 70-year-old Field Marshal Gen. Karl Rundstedt as commander of Hitler's so-called west wall.

Another German broadcast said 200,000 mines had been laid in the Bay of Biscay, guarding the approaches to southern France, and said an "impenetrable system of human and tank traps" had been built along that coast.

EISENHOWER ON TOUR

Away from a welter of fable and fancy dealing with when, where and the strength with which the Allies will attack, there were these overnight developments:

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, making a quick tour of air fields in England from which the Allied pre-invasion blows are being delivered, told the fliers that "as much as you have done in the past, more is going to be required of you."

Marshal Petain, in a broadcast from Vichy, tense with an eleventh hour expectancy, urged Frenchmen to "keep a loyal and correct attitude to the occupation troops." He asked particularly that Frenchmen ignore calls to revolt.

Stockholm advices said that not even official calls were being accepted this morning as the German occupying forces in Denmark suspended telephone communications between Stockholm and Copenhagen for the second time in a week.

Danes who reached Sweden after the Nazis isolated Denmark Monday at the beginning of a campaign to stamp out underground activities were quoted by the newspaper Dagens Nyheter as saying 40,000 Danes were armed and ready to help Allied invasion forces.

STOCKHOLM, April 29 (AP)—The Helsinki newspaper Sanomat said today, without disclosing the source of its information, that the Allied invasion of Europe is already under way, according to a dispatch to the Stockholm Aftonbladet.

"Landings probably are in progress at several places now," the Helsinki newspaper said it had "learned."

(There was no information from any Allied source substantiating this rumor.)

British Subs Smash Nazis

LONDON, April 29 (AP)—Six British submarines scored heavily recently, sinking one enemy ship, probably sinking two others, causing one to be beached and damaging six others in the tightening of pre-invasion squeeze in northern European waters, the admiralty announced today.

A tanker was sunk, a large tanker and a large supply ship were severely damaged and believed sunk, the 8000-ton German catapult ship Schwabenland was torpedoed and beached, and six other vessels received hits as the British raiders struck at convoys off Stavanger, Norway; Statlandet and in the approaches of the Skagerrak, the communique said.

Hails in Nassau

NASSAU, Bahamas, April 29 (AP)—The first hail in 15 years, and the heaviest in the memory of residents, fell here this morning.

Erratic Nazis

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY ON ANZIO BEACHHEAD, April 29 (AP)—The German air force ran the gamut of errors in a beachhead raid last night, bombing and strafing its own troops along the Moletta river despite frantic signal flares.

Shot down in flames by British-American anti-aircraft, one old model Junkers 87 Stuka crashed alongside a United States self-propelled howitzer, set off an ammunition dump and wrecked the only foxhole in the area which was not sheltering doughboy gunners.

Allied Bombers Blast Italy's West Ports

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, April 29 (AP)—Allied heavy bombers struck at the Italian west coast ports of Piombino, Orbetello and Santo Stefano yesterday, and other planes raided Genoa and other harbors by night, Allied headquarters announced today.

All land sectors were quiet during the day, a communique said.

"Medium forces" of heavy bombers raided Orbetello and Santo Stefano, 75 miles northwest of Rome, and Piombino 120 miles northwest of the Italian capital.

Medium bombers, joining in a day of 1700 sorties, attacked rail communications and bridges, and lighter planes struck supply dumps and gun positions. Eleven Allied planes were lost during the day, and five enemy aircraft were destroyed.

Summarizing three months of operations on the Anzio beachhead, the Allied command announced the total of prisoners taken there now exceeds 4000.

The summary credited gunners with 186 out of a total of 426 enemy planes destroyed by Fifth Army anti-aircraft guns since the Italian campaign began, as well as 125 probables. Dawn air raids on the beachhead have been virtually abandoned by the Germans because of severe losses.

Avery Blasts Act of Dictator

Copyright, Illinois Publishing and Printing Co., Chicago Herald-American, 1944.
Special to Boston American

CHICAGO, April 29—Sewell L. Avery today termed the government's seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co., "an atrocious attack on the American principle of free enterprise."

In an exclusive interview, the Montgomery Ward board chairman told the Herald-American that "the act was that of a dictator" and warned:

"How can there be a free country if the whims of a dictator are to be gratified?"

He spoke while seated in the library of his apartment home at 209 E. Lake Shore dr., against the background of books in tiers on tiers—well-thumbed volumes of history, philosophy, biography and technical works. He said he considered the plant seizure as a specific problem in individualism versus dictatorship.

BULLETIN

CHICAGO, April 29 (INS)—Military police were withdrawn from Montgomery Ward plants here today, as the company and the CIO union argued their differences before the National Labor Relations Board and agreed a new collective bargaining election should be held if the NLRB agrees.

ACT OF DICTATOR

Avery said:

"The action of Attorney General Biddle, a half dozen deputy marshals and a portion of the United States Army in removing me from my office and taking over the business of Montgomery Ward is an atrocious attack on the American principle of free enterprise.

"The corner butcher is not immune from such procedure. The worker in his home, surrounded by his family, is not free from an equally dastardly action.

"The act was that of a dictator And a dictator can and does say to his underlings, 'do this' or 'do that' and they obey, whether or not there is rhyme or reason for such action.

It is bridling of freedom—freedom for which the men in the air, on the water, under the water, in fox holes, in front line trenches, and on the home front are supposed to be fighting for.

"Is all this effort futile? How can there be a free country if the

Flood Ties Up Big R. R. Yard

By the Associated Press

Flood waters of the Mississippi river poured through a new levee break today and suspended some of the operations of the Missouri Pacific Railroad's freight yard at Dupo, Ill., one of the largest in the country.

By nightfall, the railroad said, half of the 110 miles of track in the yard should be under water. Freight cars were shuttled to other lines and rerouted to the Missouri side of the river. The yard near St. Louis handles 75 trains a day.

The United States Army engineers said five other levees south of Chester, Ill., were in critical condition and ordered evacuation of all families in danger of being stranded by the rising waters.

The Missouri river, reaching its predicted crest of 36.5 feet at St. Charles, Mo., flowed through a levee break and followed a channel cut by last year's flood to join the Mississippi 25 miles north of their normal confluence. The entire northern half of St. Charles County was threatened with inundation.

Flood waters from the Mississippi and three receding tributaries —the Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas rivers—have left more than 1,686,400 acres inundated in 113 counties of Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, the Red Cross reported.

The Mississippi was being battled by 10,000 federal and state troopers, Coast Guardsmen, prisoners of war, volunteers and high school students.

Hub Crashes Kill 1; Woman Hurt

William H. Nickerson, Jr., 50, of Center st., Newton, Brockton shoe parts manufacturer, was instantly killed today, and a Brookline woman was critically injured in separate auto crashes occurring within 15 minutes at the Huntington ave. underpass.

Nickerson's car plowed head-on into a five-ton motor street sweeper.

Police said the street machine, operated by George N. Freeman, 52, of Codman pk., Roxbury, was traveling toward downtown Boston, but in the out-bound lane and in the opposite direction of Nickerson's auto.

While the scene was being cleared of debris, another crash happened at the other end of the underpass, within sight of a throng of onlookers attracted by the first accident.

Miss Margaret Shedd, 38, of Beals st., Brookline, a passenger in the auto of Arthur Auld, 45, of Lanark rd., Brighton, according to police, suffered a possible skull fracture and severe head cuts when Auld's car rammed the rear of a taxicab.

Auld and the taxi driver, Peter Chen, 30, of Beacon st., escaped injury.

Ask Roxbury Mother Of 6 to Return Home

To a Roxbury mother, to whom the problems of keeping house for her husband and six children wore her nerves to the breaking point, this is an appeal by those who love and need her to come home.

MRS. MURIEL POOLE
Missing Five Weeks

It's been almost five weeks since Mrs. Muriel Poole, 34, left her home on Rockland st., Roxbury. The task of carrying on without her has become an increasingly unhappy one for her husband, John, a taxi driver.

Muriel, 12, tries so hard to take her mother's place, caring for David, 6, and Thomas, 5, but the struggle and heartache is too much for a little schoolgirl to shoulder.

Johnny, Jr., 15, Robert, 14 and James, 10, try to pitch in manfully, helping Dad prepare breakfast for the family, and looking after one another, but there's a void in the household which only the mother's return can fill.

Mrs. Poole's mother, grieving over the absence of her daughter, is ill in the hospital.

Forrestal Seen In Knox's Post

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, April 29 (INS)—Congressional leaders predicted today Acting Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal will be President Roosevelt's choice to fill the wartime Cabinet vacancy created by the sudden death yesterday of Navy Secretary Knox.

AT KNOX HOME — Acting Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal leaves the Washington home of his late chief, Secretary Knox, after paying respects.

Associated Press Wirephoto

No move will be made to fill the post, however, at least until the funeral of Knox, Chicago Republican publisher, on Monday. Knox will be buried with full military honors at Arlington National Cemetery.

In both House and Senate, the privately-expressed sentiment was that Forrestal should get the job as a qualified businessman who has played a major role in the gigantic task of building the nation's naval power.

NAVY FLIER IN '18

Now 52, Forrestal came to Washington in 1940 as the first undersecretary of the Navy in the department's history. A New Yorker and a Democrat, he was born in President Roosevelt's own Dutchess County and has known the President for 30 years. He served in World War I as a naval aviator and spent most of his adult business life with the investment firm of Dillon, Read & Co.

Feeling was noted among some Democrats that Mr. Roosevelt, following his original "unity" idea in naming Republicans Knox and Henry L. Stimson to the Navy and War portfolios, might choose another Republican.

In this category mention was given Lieut. Comdr. Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota now serving in the Pacific and a potential "draft" candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

WILKIE COUNTED OUT

Sentiment was that the President would not offer the post to Willkie.

In addition, the nomination of either Adm. Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, or Adm. William D. Leahy, the President's personal chief of staff, would remove them from important strategy assignments in administrative combat machinery—on the eve of invasion.

Senate members mentioned both former Gov. Charles Edison of New Jersey, who left the Navy to seek that post successfully, and Sen. Truman (D.) of Missouri, chairman of the war investigating committee which is known by his name. Both, at best, congressional leaders believed, are outside possibilities.

Son Killed in Action

PITTSFIELD, April 29—Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Sullivan of Henry ave. have received word from the War Department that their son, Pfc. Paul C. Sullivan, 26, a radio gunner on a Flying Fortress, has been killed in action on a flight over Europe.

Boat Upsets, 5 Safe in Mystic

One boy was rescued from drowning and his four companions swam safely to shore when their rowboat capsized in the Mystic river, Somerville, today.

The five, all members of the Sea Scouts, were in the middle of the river when the boat sprang a leak. While they were trying to bail out, the boat upset.

William Armstrong, 15, of Hurlecroft ave., Medford, unable to swim, cried for help as he floundered. Two bystanders on shore, Richard Barry of Auburn st. and Leonard Huyler, Princeton st., both Medford, swam out and pulled him ashore.

He was revived by the Somerville fire dept. and taken to Somerville Hospital.

His companions, whom swam to shore, were Joseph Charest, 15, of Harvard st.; Robert DuLong, 16, of Edward st.; William Conserva, 15, of Joseph st., all Medford, and Joseph Monahan, 14, of Glen st., Somerville.

Questionnaires Hit as Foolish

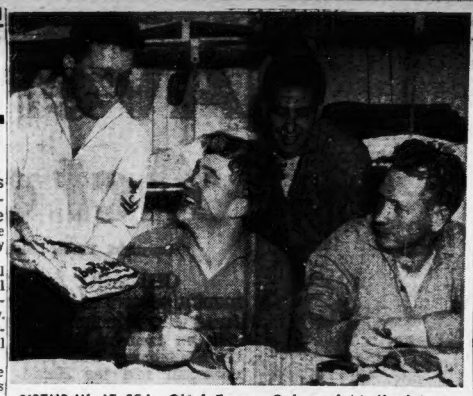
WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Rep. Elliott (D.) of California is sick and tired of government questionnaires which "are taking up the time of people who have something else to do."

"Just listen to this silly stuff," he told the House in reading queries on a Department of Agriculture questionnaire. He said it wanted to know:

Church affiliations and frequency of attendance; number of participations a year for each family member in school functions, card parties, picnics and other "informal" activities; a listing of "families with whom you visited regularly in 1943 and 1940 (if different) and whom you consider your more intimate friends," and "do you do more or less visiting than in 1940?"

Rep. Johnson (D.) of Oklahoma backed him up.

"For months I have said I have been fed up with these insane, ridiculous, inexcusable questionnaires," he said.



BIRTHDAY AT SEA—Chief Eugene Colson of Medford is surprised at chow aboard a Coast Guard destroyer escort in the North Atlantic as the ship's cook, Arthur Kordys, brings him in a birthday cake. Nick Iannucci and Dick Queen (right) are the others in the group.

Yanks Tell of Great Fights Over Berlin

A FLYING FORTRESS BASE IN ENGLAND, April 29 (AP)—"It was the most ferocious fighter attack I have ever seen," declared Sergt. Harold G. Cleary, Syracuse, N. Y., a waistgunner, who told how American planes raiding Berlin today fought their way through waves of 150 to 200 German fighters.

He described how the German fighters tore through bomber formations 10 at a time while scores of others hovered above and below, waiting their turn to strike.

"After the second attack our tailgunner counted 98 fighters getting into formation again and that was after we had destroyed a number of them," he continued.

He said enemy formations held off over the capital itself while Berlin's massed ground defenses thundered up the greatest barrage yet encountered.

The Germans employed their old head-on tactics with attacks apparently timed to coincide with shifts in the Allied fighter escort formations, when protection was likely to be weakest.

The Germans did all they could to avoid contact with the American fighters, crewmen reported, but the Yanks witnessed several red-hot dogfights.

Lieut. Eugene W. Wolfe, Topeka, Kan., a navigator, said a German fighter attacked his ship head-on, splattering glass over the bomber's nose.

"About that time I got mad and let 'em have it," hhe continued. "I saw him start to spin and disappear under one ship."

"The entire city of Berlin must be overworking its fire department tonight," put in Sergt. Pat McDonough, a tailgunner, North Quincy, Mass.

BENEFIT STAR—Ginger Harmon, famed Shangri-La song stylist, will be among notables of stage, screen and radio who will appear at the Colonial Theater Sunday evening at the 20th annual Menorah Institute charity benefit show.

3 Flee as Blaze Sweeps House

A short circuit in an electric refrigerator was blamed by fire officials for a $2500 blaze which drove three persons from a Horace st., East Boston, house today.

Those forced to flee included the owner, Michael F. Gillespie, 40; James McHugh, 24, and his sister, Miss Margaret McHugh, 22, all occupants of rooms on the second floor. The first-floor apartment was vacant.

F. R. May Miss Funeral of Knox

WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, Somewhere In The South, April 29 (INS)—The deep tan acquired from constant fishing in the southern sun failed to hide the grief felt by President Roosevelt today over the sudden death of Navy Secretary Frank Knox, one of his key cabinet officers and a loyal and staunch friend.

There was no indication that Mr. Rooseveit will be able to attend Knox's funeral in Washington Monday.

Breaking the silence of his three-weeks recuperative vacation, Mr. Roosevelt called together representatives of the nation's three major news services to express words of deep regret over the passing of the man he called in to take the helm of the Navy's destiny after the fall of France four years ago.

The President looked very fit and rested in a large wingchair in the living room of a beautiful old southern home, but his informal talk with the correspondents showed his great sorrow over Knox's death.

In a message released to the nation through the White House Mr. Roosevelt said that Knox's passing "is a heavy loss to us and to me especially, who had come to lean on him increasingly."

"He has done much for his country," the President stated. "He has helped greatly in our defense and in making victory certain. Finally, I like to think of his bigness and his loyalty. Truly he put his country first. We shall greatly miss his ability and his friendship."

Speaking in words of deep affection, Mr. Roosevelt said Knox died at his post—a war casualty, just as any other soldier or sailor who died in combat.

Navy's "Well Done" Goes to Frank Knox

By HAMILTON W. FARON

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—"Well done, Frank Knox." Those words, spoken by Admiral Ernest J. King, Navy Commander in Chief, stand today as an epitaph for Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox who died yesterday from recurrent heart attacks.

Then King added:

"We dedicate ourselves, one and all, to what would surely have been his last order—carry on."

The Navy will do that. Forrestal directed than on Monday, when Knox is buried in Arlington Cemetery with full military honors, flags on all ships and at all stations shall fly at half mast. But, he said, "because the nation is at war the firing of salutes and the wearing of mourning badges shall be dispensed with."

Bay State Priest in Long Conference With Stalin

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, April 29 (AP)—The Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, gray-haired Polish-American priest, had an unprecedented conference with Premier Stalin yesterday. He declared today the results were "excellent" and announced a plan to campaign for a democratic Poland friendly to the Soviet Union.

Fr. Orlemanski, pastor of the Holy Rosary Church of Springfield, Mass., said after a brief trip to the Polish army in Russia he would return to the United States for the campaign, details of which he declined to disclose. Evidently he intends to work among Poles in America and attempt to gain support.

(Some Polish-American leaders in the United States have protested against Fr. Orlemanski's visit to Moscow. He is the first Catholic priest to go there from the United States since 1934.)

His meeting with Stalin was announced on the front pages of today's Moscow newspapers under a two-column headline together with two official photographs covering the entire bottom of the page.

Sitting coatless in a room of the National Hotel, opposite the Kremlin, Fr. Orlemanski said:

"I am here as a private American citizen and am no official representative."

He declared the State Department gave him permission to make the trip as a private citizen of no official standing.

Foreign Commissar Molotov was also present at the interview with Stalin. Fr. Orlemanski received original prints of official photographs of himself with the two Russian leaders, and commented:

"This will make a rumpus in America, eh?"

The press coverage of his visit was the same accorded to visits of the most eminent world leaders. Fr. Orlemanski had not contacted U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, but called on Maxwell Hamilton, U. S. minister in Moscow.

FAVORS RUSSIAN PACT

He appeared puzzled by the extent of the publicity he had received, which he had expected to avoid until his return home. He learned from the Kremlin itself news of his visit had appeared in the United States.

Stalin, in previous public utterances, has favored a "free, independent, democratic Poland," an aim which it is assumed he reiterated in his interview with the priest.

Fr. Orlemanski explained he was organizer and honorary president of the Kosciuszko League, established in Detroit last November. He said he had traveled in Canada "to get first hand information on Poland" and treatment there of the Polish people from Poles who had migrated to Canada.

He said he became "the only Roman Catholic priest in America who supported a move for friendship between Russia and Poland, and a real democratic government for Poland, by the people and for the people."

He indicated he did not consider the past or present Polish governments democratic.

Priest's Russia Trip Stirs Row

Controversy spread today in western Massachusetts over the secret trip of the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski of Springfield to Russia, where he is reported to be studying the situation of Poles and the Polish army and already has conferred with Premier Stalin and Foreign Commissar Molotov.

A spokesman for the Most Rev. Thomas M. O'Leary, bishop of the Springfield diocese of the Catholic Church, said Fr. Orlemanski had made the trip without the consent of his bishop. Any disciplinary action must await the priest's return, it was explained.

Leaders of several Polish national organizations in the Springfield area, opposed to the priest's pro-Soviet views, sharply criticized him for making the trip, but the spokesmen for members of his parish said the parishioners were "100 per cent behind Fr. Orlemanski because they know he wants to bring an American way of life to the people of Poland."

Born in Pennsylvania of Polish-American parents, the priest was known to be an opponent of the Polish government-in-exile. He just completed a national speaking tour.

Vice Trial Defense Asks Freedom for 7

By FRANK I. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, April 29 (INS)—A defense move to dismiss charges against seven women in Wasington's swank call-girl establishment prosecution was before presiding Justice Lederle today.

Defense lawyers asked a directed verdict of not guilty for two alleged "madames" and five "call-girls," all accused of violating the Mann Act and of conspiring in a white slave traffic.

The lawyers contended the government had failed to produce evidence of conspiracy or "transportation"—pointing out the girls sometimes walked to their assignments to men's rooms in the city's finest hotels. Attorneys for the five call-girls contended also that as "victims," they could not be held guilty under the Mann Act.

Justice Lederle will hear arguments Monday.

"STUDENT BODY" ON STAND

Earlier, seven well-tailored young women—who testified that, "sent by Diane," they frequented men's rooms in the capital's swankier hotels——paraded to the witness stand to tell of their functions as "the student body" of "Hopkins institute."

Missing, however, was the blonde alumna, reputed "star" of the cast, Sunny Pitts, who once testified she "grossed" $600 in a week to split between herself and the "institute's" coffers.

Sunny was waiting with the other ex-Hopkins girls—assorted blondes and brunettes and a petite redhead—but was not called by the prosecution.

However, she may get a role, for Edward M. Buckley, Jr., one of the defense lawyers, said he had decided to call the flaxen-haired Sunny as a defense witness—unless the case is ended by a directed verdict.

NAMES KEPT SECRET

At the same time it was indicated "little black book"—actually three books of assorted colors—rumored to list some prominent names as patrons of "entertainers" from the "million-dollar-a-year call-house," will remain closed.

Defense lawyers said opening the book would "serve no useful purpose." One declared he would protest vigorously against their introduction into the official record.

Meanwhile, there was a denial on behalf of Edward M. Rayerby, Boston, Mass., jukebox operator, who, former Institute Manager Mildred Powell Carter—also known as Diane—testified once paid the "institute" by a check for $20.

A Boston lawyer, Harry M. Lichtenstein, said Raverby never had anything to do with the Hopkins Institute.

NEWARK, N. J., April 29 (AP)—By the time Mrs. Mary Zullo of Newark arrived at the federal court room Judge Thomas F. Meaney had finished swearing in a score of new citizens.

"You're too late," a clerk told Mrs. Zullo yesterday. She handed him a telegram.

Judge Meaney read the telegram then administered the oath to Mrs. Zullo.

The telegram, received by the Italian-born woman informed her of the death in action of her son, 26-year-old Sergt. Daniel Zullo, an engineer on a Flying Fortress.

Smoking in Bed, Dies in Flames

Charles Barker, 63, of Buchanan st., Winthrop, a watchman, who had been ill in bed for several days, perished early today when a cigarette which he was smoking set fire to the bed clothing.

19 of 23 Crash Bodies Found

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., April 29 (AP)—Nineteen mangled bodies were removed from the wreckage of a Navy transport plane which crashed early yesterday, 30 miles southeast of this mountain town, killing or injuring all of 23 men aboard.

The Coconino County sheriff's office definitely identified the plane after establishing short wave communication with a rescue party of deputies and naval officers from Winslow, Ariz.

Sheriff Peery Francis said two of the four injured men who survived the crash wandered to a ranch and later were removed to a Flagstaff hospital. The other two, one critically hurt, were found at the scene and brought here in an ambulance.

Searchers spent most of the day battling through muddy roads and wilderness-locked terrain in an effort to reach the wreckage.

Rep. Clare Luce Again Raps F. D.

PUTNAM, Ct., April 29 (INS)—President Roosevelt was under renewed attack today from Rep. Clare Boothe Luce who assailed the Chief Executive's 1940 promise of participation in "no foreign wars" regardless of what he was doing in the direction of intervention.

She told the Fairfield County Women's Republican Ass'n:

"It is not that he wanted to fight or believed we must for which I blame him, but that he deceived the people into believing we could stay out—that attacks by Japan were not at that late date inevitable."

Comparing conflicts within the Democratic Party which she termed "practically impossible of solution," with "the closest GOP harmony in 12 years," she added in an obvious reference to Gov. Dewey:

"There is even reason to believe that the next Republican presidential candidate will be

Mongrel Pup Mascot Shows Mettle in Aitape Landing

By SPENCER DAVIS

WITH THE SIXTH ARMY FORCES AT AITAPE, New Guinea, April 29 (AP)—No invasion is complete without its mascot, and in the Aitape campaign a little mongrel dog named Bilgeplug played his role to the hilt.

Yapping and wagging his long brown tail furiously, Bilgeplug not only made the original landing but shuttled from ship to shore all day in an amphibious duck.

"We call him Bilgeplug because that is the most important thing about these ducks," explained his owner, Pvt. Richard Kasekamp of Frostburg, Md.

"He knows every man in our outfit, and when he's not riding a duck you'll find him curled up in a jeep."

First Lieut. William Slocum of Pittsburgh, who takes proprietary interest in the mascot, said he was born on a transport en route from the United States. His maternal parent was attached to an anti-aircraft outfit, but when the ack-ackers moved to an advanced position one of her six pups was missing.

Bilgeplug has been a permanent fixture at an amphibian engineer camp ever since.

Dress Up GI Bill For Quick Passage

By FRANK REILLY
Boston American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 29—With early passage of the "GI bill of rights" now predicted on all sides as a result of its endorsement by Rep. John E. Rankin's House committee on veterans' legislation, the committee met today to draft the measure in final form in readiness for a vote next week.

Chairman Rankin, sharply criticized by his colleagues in Congress and American Legion officials for stalling tactics in considering the bill, gave in to the pressure and announced that the long-awaited measure will be reported to the floor of the House on Monday or Tuesday for "passage as early as possible."

If the normal legislative routine is followed, the bill will probably be passed by the House before May 8. It has already gone through the Senate, by unanimous vote.

In its present tentative form, the House version of the program for veterans' rehabilitation contains six major provisions:

1—Hospitalization and treatment for the sick, wounded and disabled veterans. 2—Granting of war agency status to the Veterans Administration, second only to the Army and Navy, with priorities to grant maximum service to the veterans. 3—Educational assistance to discharged servicemen and women. 4—Loans to help purchase homes, farms or small business properties. 5—Streamlined veterans' employment law "with teeth." 6—Unemployment compensation.

Rankin objected to the last point, but his arguments were broken down by Stanley Rector, unemployment compensation expert and advisor to the conference of state employment security agencies.

Girls Grilled in Vain on 2 Deaths

State and Braintree police today released two 16-year-old girls after lengthy questioning and admitted they were still baffled by the double shooting of a West End taxi driver and a sailor on April 20.

Lieut. William Delay and Lieut. J. Norman Butler of Dist.-Atty. Edmund W. Dewing's staff said they grilled one of the girls at her home in Maine. The other was a Braintree girl, a parolee from the reformatory.

Police said every possible clue will be traced in the deaths of Charles V. Lisitano of Green st., West End, and Seaman Howard Smith of Buffalo, N. Y., whose body was found nearby.

East Indies Oil Opened to Allies

WASHINGTON, April 29 (INS)—The Netherlands government went on record today as permitting access by the rest of the world to the oil and other natural resources of the Dutch East Indies.

Reconquest of the fabulously wealthy East Indies was begun a week ago, with the taking of Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea.

The Netherlands statement was prompted by news dispatches from New Guinea, which raised the question whether the United States and Great Britain, after spending lives and material in the reconquest of Dutch territory, would be permitted to participate in development of the resources.

The statement, emanating by Radio Orange from the Netherlands government in London, was recorded in Washington by the Federal Communications Commission.

Yanks' Buffalo Tanks Cross Guinea Lake

WITH AMERICAN FORCES AT THE HOLLANDIA AIRDROMES, New Guinea, April 26 (delayed) (INS)—An amphibious "blitzkrieg," reminiscent of the Nazis' smash across the low countries' canal defenses, occurred today when squat American Buffalo tanks churned across New Guinea's largest fresh water lake and grated ashore on the road to Hollandia's three airdromes.

Tuesday night we bivouacked in a swampy, natural amphitheater formed by the folding hills on the edges of Lake Sentani. Maj. James Anderson of Fort Forth, Tex., assigned this correspondent to a position in one of the Buffaloes which was to lead the attack the following day. That same night we received the only artillery fire hurled our way during the entire operation.

The Japs evidently discovered our position and for an hour peppered us with a heavy shrapnel barrage which finally was silenced by our mobile .75-millimeter field guns that had been dragged along the jungle trails. However, we suffered some casualties before the enemy guns were knocked out.

CLIMB INTO TANK

Wednesday at dawn—soaked through by the jungle's typical miasmic mist—we climbed into the squat armored Buffaloes and waddled down the lake's marshy shores, then chugged in the direction of Nefarr native village, four miles distant.

Nefarr is situated on pilings and controls the roadway leading to the airdromes, three miles further inland.

Three hundred yards from shore the Buffaloes opened up with a blistering barrage of rockets, .37-millimeter shells and 50-calibre machine guns, under cover of which we grated bumpily ashore. Then scrambling out into the knee-deep, mud-bottomed water we floundered onto the swampy shore.

Not a single shot greeted us—instead eerie silence, except for the chugging of the Buffaloes' motors. Maj. Horace Bradbury of Billings, Mont.—a veteran of the Buna campaign—formed the landing unit into jungle skirmishing formations. Cautiously we sloshed across a quarter-mile of swamp and emerged onto the road leading toward the airfields; there we were joined by two single files of troops who had come up the road from Hollandia.

FIND JAP MEALS

Rushing along the road—which was lined with blasted palm trees and craters from previous Fifth Air Force strategic attacks—ahead of the column, I joined three doughboys serving as advance scouts. They proceeded cautiously, as they had seen half-finished meals in Jap bivouacs indicating that the Nips were somewhere around.

During the entire operation, the American casualties were virtually nil, while Japanese dead were visible everywhere.

Have a Coca-Cola=You're invited to our house

...or how to make sailors feel at home

Homes, these days, are often playing host to our fighting men and their friendly allies. There's one sure greeting that will put them all at ease. It's Have a "Coke". To an old friend, Coca-Cola from your own refrigerator says Welcome back. To a newcomer, it says Stranger, you belong. At home, in camp, and overseas, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become the symbol of American friendliness the world over.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

Mexico Lend-Lease American Graft Hit

By EARL BERKLEY

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Rep. Bradley (R.) of Michigan disclosed today he would seek a Congressional investigation of reports—which he said came to him from "a nationally known engineer and contractor"—that Americans are getting rich and living in luxury in Mexico off lend-lease expenditures.

After detailing the reports to the House and asserting "these internationally-minded gentry" are escaping United States taxes, Bradley said he planned to take the matter to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee through Sen. Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan.

He expressed hope the committee could report before the Senate takes final action on the bill continuing lend-lease. The House has passed the measure.

Bradley told the House he had information from an engineer-contractor, whom he did not identify by name, that some Americans were seemingly enjoying the Mexican climate, horse races, bull fights and hilarity and not a few were seemingly enjoying a veritable bonanza of wealth recently acquired through the offices of our good-neighbor policy and lend-lease.

"My friend noticed a great many beautiful new 1942 automobiles bearing licenses from many states," said Bradley.

Bradley said this surprised him, because he had understood that 1942 cars could be taken out of the country only with State Department authority.

"It would seem," Bradley said in his speech, "rather difficult for some of those politicians, some of those United States contractors and engineers whom my friend saw and with whom he talked, to justify to the OPA their foreign use of those cars.

"Furthermore, at the border one may, if he wishes, remove and check his tires and travel in Mexico on rented American-made tires supplied to Mexico under lend-lease."

NORTH WILBRAHAM, April 29—Lieut.-Col. Luther Richmond, 28, veteran of 50 air missions, who turned down an offer for an extended leave in this country to remain overseas, is missing in action over enemy territory, his parents were notified today.

Holder of the Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Flying Cross, and the Air Medal with nine Oak Leaf Clusters, Richmond is one of the youngest flight squadron leaders in the Air Forces.

On the completion of his 50th mission, he declined an offer to return to the United States and serve as a flying instructor. In explaining his decision to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Richmond, the flyer wrote:

"This war has a long way to go, and I feel that my place is right here."

Before entering the service he attended American International College. He has a brother, Lieut. William Richmond, also in the Air Force.

Poison Label Bill Called Memorial to Five Babies

By CHARLES LANG

N. Y. Daily Mirrow Staff Writer Special to Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, April 29—They call it a bill to amend the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. But, in another sense, it is a memorial to the five babies who died of boric acid poisoning in New London, Ct., because its purpose is to see that nothing so tragic happens again.

The measure, introduced in the House in Washington today by Rep. Bloom (D.) of New York, amends the act prescribing under what circumstances a drug shall be deemed misbranded:

"If it contains any quantity of boric acid, or any other substance which is poisonous when used internally and which is similar in appearance to another drug which is for internal use, unless it bears a label containing the statement "Warning—Poisonous if used internally."

It would take effect within 30 days after passage Bloom said and he promised:

"I shall do everything possible to secure speedy enactment of this bill."

This action came as the city council prepared to request city and state health departments to see that boric acid is similarly marked "Caution — Poison." The resolution, to be introduced Tuesday by Councilman Vogel, (D.) of Brooklyn, is assured of passage, according to Majority Leader Sharkey.

"The people of the city should be given assurance that the tragedy of mistaking boric acid powder for a milk formula could not happen in hospitals here," said Council Minority Leader Earle.

She said she believed the sanitary code took care of that, and saw no need for the proposed resolution. A search of the sanitary code, however, disclosed nothing requiring a "poison" label on boric acid. Hospitals Commissioner Bernecker already has ordered all boric acid bottles in the 28 city hospitals marked "poison."

Truck Drivers Study Back to Work Order

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 29—Members of the local unit of the Truck Drivers' Union today studied a War Labor Board request to return to their jobs and end a six-day strike which has tied up some 300 trucks

Nazi Peace Drive Seen

LONDON, April 29—A Reuter dispatch from Zurich today quoted a well-informed diplomatic source in Switzerland as saying that Franz Von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, will be chosen by Hitler to start peace negotiations with the Allies by way of Ankara.

These advices said Von Papen is expected to arrive at Hitler's headquarters momentarily and intends to return to Ankara as soon as possible.

It was also said the Nazi ambassador in Madrid is to be given instructions to put out peace feelers.

Reuter's pointed out there is no confirmation of these reports from any other source and that they should be treated with the utmost reserve.

Because there just isn't enough equipment to go around these days, you may not be able to get telephone service at the new address, if you are planning to move.

Before moving, or taking a house for the summer, please ask at your local Telephone Business Office whether service will be available at the new address.

We would like to give service to all who want it but we just can't fill waiting orders until the facilities become available. Our reserves, ample in normal times, are all in use, and the shortage of materials due to war needs has stopped the manufacture of new equipment for civilian use.

Where have all the telephones gone? Mostly into the greatly expanded activities of the Army and Navy and essential war industries. Actually we have in service 225,000 more instruments and handle daily a half-million more calls than before the war.

That's why it's advisable for you to make inquiries before you move or make plans for the summer.

Cardinal's Red Hat To Hang in Crypt

In the field-stone crypt which he designed himself on the grounds of St. John's Seminary in Brighton, the earthly remains of William Cardinal O'Connell rested today while diocesan officials scheduled two brief, final acts to be held "within two or three days."

These are the official sealing of the huge bronze casket and the traditional hanging of the Cardinal's red hat from the ceiling of the crypt above the slab covering the body of His Eminence, neither of which will be attended with ceremony.

Today, one week since his death from bronchial pneumonia last Saturday, the Cardinal will be honored by several close associates who will celebrate mass for the repose of his soul on a portable altar stone in the crypt-chapel.

Diocesan spokesman announced that within a "fortnight," the altar there will be consecreated in a three-hour ceremony, probably with the Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, interim administrator of the archdiocese, officiating. After the altar is consecrated, the portable altar stone no longer will be required for celebration of masses.

30 TASSELED HAT

The red, wide-brimmed, 30-tasseled Cardinal's hat, which Cardinal O'Connell wore only once—on the day he was elevated by Pope Pius X to the rank of Prince of the Church—now reposes on the crypt altar. In accordance with custom, it will be suspended on a cord from a hook in the ceiling to hang until it disintegrates.

The majority of the visiting prelates who came to Boston to attend the funeral services for the late dean of the Roman Catholic hierarchy departed today. These included Archbishop Amleto G. Cicognani, apostolic delegate of Pope Pius XII, celebrant of the pontifical funeral mass; Dennis Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, who presided, and nearly two-score archbishops and bishops.

EXPRESS GRATITUDE

A public expression of gratitude to all who paid tribute to the late Cardinal and shared the grief of the archdiocese was issued by the diocesan office. It read:

"His Excellency, Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, realizing the impossibility of thanking personally the untold numbers of persons who paid tribute to the memory of His Eminence, the Cardinal, and who so generously contributed their services in the course of the protracted obsequies, wishes in this way to acknowledge his gratitude and appreciation.

"His Excellency, the clergy and the Catholic people of the archdiocese will ever retain in memory the kindness of all their fellow citizens of every race and creed, who shared with them a burden of grief too great to be borne alone."

Cardinal Cites Italy's Plight

NAPLES, April 29 (INS)—Alassio Cardinal Ascalesi, ranking churchman in the liberated portion of Italy, told his first news conference today Italy's present plight was brought about by moral decadence.

When the churches were bombed, the center of community life was erased, the people forgot God, and the "moral decadence and corruptness" came about, said the cardinal.

Meeting with Col. James Kincaid, AMG provincial governor of Naples, Cardinal Ascalesi promised full support of the clergy in a one-week campaign to clean up the filth and disease in Naples threatening Allied troops and the native population.

Cardinal Ascalesi, praising the revival of the Boy Scout movement in Italy, said he believed it will help bring about "new thinking and a stronger Italian youth."

NORTH WILBRAHAM, April 29—Lieut.-Col. Luther Richmond, 28, veteran of 50 air missions, who turned down an offer for an extended leave in this country to remain overseas, is missing in action over enemy territory, his parents were notified today.

Holder of the Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Flying Cross, and the Air Medal with nine Oak Leaf Clusters, Richmond is one of the youngest flight squadron leaders in the Air Forces.

On the completion of his 50th mission, he declined an offer to return to the United States and serve as a flying instructor. In explaining his decision to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Richmond, the flyer wrote:

"This war has a long way to go, and I feel that my place is right here."

Before entering the service he attended American International College. He has a brother, Lieut. William Richmond, also in the Air Force.

16 Poisoned Babies Fully Recovered

NEW LONDON, Ct., April 29 (AP)—Administrator Richard J. Hancock of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated Hospitals announced today 16 of the 21 babies made ill recently by the erroneous administering of boric acid powder instead of a dextrose feeding compound have recovered completely and will suffer no ill effects.

Five infants, children of Navy parents, died.

Truck Drivers Study Back to Work Order

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 29—Members of the local unit of the Truck Drivers' Union today studied a War Labor Board request to return to their jobs and end a six-day strike which has tied up some 300 trucks.

Transportation work "which is critical to the war effort" is being delayed by the walkout, the truck drivers were told.

Nazi Peace Drive Seen

LONDON, April 29—A Reuter dispatch from Zurich today quoted a well-informed diplomatic source in Switzerland as saying that Franz Von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, will be chosen by Hitler to start peace negotiations with the Allies by way of Ankara.

These advices said Von Papen is expected to arrive at Hitler's headquarters momentarily and intends to return to Ankara as soon as possible.

It was also said the Nazi ambassador in Madrid is to be given instructions to put out peace feelers.

Reuter's pointed out there is no confirmation of these reports from any other source and that they should be treated with the utmost

Poison Label Bill Called Memorial to Five Babies

By CHARLES LANG

N. Y. Daily Mirrow Staff Writer Special to Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, April 29—They call it a bill to amend the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. But, in another sense, it is a memorial to the five babies who died of boric acid poisoning in New London, Ct., because its purpose is to see that nothing so tragic happens again.

The measure, introduced in the House in Washington today by Rep. Bloom (D.) of New York, amends the act prescribing under what circumstances a drug shall be deemed misbranded:

"If it contains any quantity of boric acid, or any other substance which is poisonous when used internally and which is similar in appearance to another drug which is for internal use, unless it bears a label containing the statement "Warning—Poison cus if used internally."

It would take effect within 30 days after passage Bloom said and he promised:

"I shall do everything possible to secure speedy enactment of this bill."

This action came as the city council prepared to request city and state health departments to see that boric acid is similarly marked "Caution — Poison." The resolution, to be introduced Tuesday by Councilman Vogel, (D.) of Brooklyn, is assured of passage, according to Majority Leader Sharkey.

"The people of the city should be given assurance that the tragedy of mistaking boric acid powder for a milk formula could not happen in hospitals here," said Council Minority Leader Earle.

She said she believed the sanitary code took care of that, and saw no need for the proposed resolution. A search of the sanitary code, however, disclosed nothing requiring a "poison" label on boric acid. Hospitals Commissioner Bernecker already has ordered all boric acid bottles in the 28 city hospitals marked "poison."

Planning to move?

ASK IF YOU CAN GET A TELEPHONE AT YOUR NEW ADDRESS

Because there just isn't enough equipment to go around these days, you may not be able to get telephone service at the new address, if you are planning to move.

Before moving, or taking a house for the summer, please ask at your local Telephone Business Office whether service will be available at the new address.

We would like to give service to all who want it but we just can't fill waiting orders until the facilities become available. Our reserves, ample in normal times, are all in use, and the shortage of materials due to war needs has stopped the manufacture of new equipment for civilian use.

Where have all the telephones gone? Mostly into the greatly expanded activities of the Army and Navy and essential war industries. Actually we have in service 225,000 more instruments and handle daily a half-million more calls than before the war.

That's why it's advisable for you to make inquiries before you move or make plans for the summer.

Cardinal's Red Hat To Hang in Crypt

In the field-stone crypt which he designed himself on the grounds of St. John's Seminary in Brighton, the earthly remains of William Cardinal O'Connell rested today while diocesan officials scheduled two brief, final acts to be held "within two or three days."

These are the official sealing of the huge bronze casket and the traditional hanging of the Cardinal's red hat from the ceiling of the crypt above the slab covering the body of His Eminence, neither of which will be attended with ceremony.

Today, one week since his death from bronchial pneumonia last Saturday, the Cardinal will be honored by several close associates who will celebrate mass for the repose of his soul on a portable altar stone in the crypt-chapel.

Diocesan spokesman announced that within a "fortnight," the altar there will be consecreated in a three-hour ceremony, probably with the Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, interim administrator of the archdiocese, officiating. After the altar is consecrated, the portable altar stone no longer will be required for celebration of masses.

30 TASSELED HAT

The red, wide-brimmed, 30-tasseled Cardinal's hat, which Cardinal O'Connell wore only once—on the day he was elevated by Pope Pius X to the rank of Prince of the Church—now reposes on the crypt altar. In accordance with custom, it will be suspended on a cord from a hook in the ceiling to hang until it disintegrates.

The majority of the visiting prelates who came to Boston to attend the funeral services for the late dean of the Roman Catholic hierarchy departed today. These included Archbishop Amleto G. Cicognani, apostolic delegate of Pope Pius XII, celebrant of the pontifical funeral mass; Dennis Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, who presided, and nearly two-score archbishops and bishops.

EXPRESS GRATITUDE

A public expression of gratitude to all who paid tribute to the late Cardinal and shared the grief of the archdiocese was issued by the diocesan office. It read:

"His Excellency, Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, realizing the impossibility of thanking personally the untold numbers of persons who paid tribute to the memory of His Eminence, the Cardinal, and who so generously contributed their services in the course of the protracted obsequies, wishes in this way to acknowledge his gratitude and appreciation.

"His Excellency, the clergy and the Catholic people of the archdiocese will ever retain in memory the kindness of all their fellow citizens of every race and creed, who shared with them a burden of grief too great to be borne alone."

Cardinal Cites Italy's Plight

NAPLES, April 29 (INS)—Alassio Cardinal Ascalesi, ranking churchman in the liberated portion of Italy, told his first news conference today Italy's present plight was brought about by moral decadence.

When the churches were bombed, the center of community life was erased, the people forgot God, and the "moral decadence and corruptness" came about, said the cardinal.

Meeting with Col. James Kincaid, AMG provincial governor of Naples, Cardinal Ascalesi promised full support of the clergy in a one-week campaign to clean up the filth and disease in Naples threatening Allied troops and the native population.

Cardinal Ascalesi, praising the revival of the Boy Scout movement in Italy, said he believed it will help bring about "new thinking and a stronger Italian youth."

whims of a dictator are to be gratified?"

Reverting to the scenes which culminated in his forcible ejection from the plant, Avery said:

QUESTIONED AUTHORITY

"Before being taken bodily from my office, a half dozen deputy marshals sat in my office wondering what to do. They whispered among themselves. Finally, in desperation as to their next move, they read a paper to me.

"I questioned their authority. I questioned the legality of their action.

"Then I was told that the Army would put me out. And in a little more than an hour, sure enough, in came the Army. Two stalwarts carried me out when I refused to give up my desk or obey their commands.

"In that action, which came spontaneously, and was not calculated, I think I manifested my rights. The courts will thresh all these things out—and then act."

KNOWS MILITARY TACTICS

Avery recalled his five years of military training at the Orchard Lake Military Academy, Orchard Lake, Mich., which he said was the "Culver of the 90s," he explained:

"I was a captain. I am familiar with military tactics. I felt a comfortable sense of association with those military men who were ordered to remove me.

"I wasn't chagrined. I just bowed those who I thought had no authority to order me out that I would not leave. I defied them to take me out. I would not walk out."

Avery, who was president of the U. S. Gypsum Co. before he joined the Montgomery Ward organization and still is chairman of the board of the Gypsum company, said that he learned the whys and wherefores of unions in the gypsum business, which is closely akin to mining. He said:

"I am familiar with unions. I know their demands and why they make them. My background has been one of intimate association with unions.

"There is an orderly procedure to enlist union members, but this didn't seem to exist at our place.

DA JUDGE'LL BE SORE, BUT IT WAS A ACCERDENT!
I WAS IMERTATIN' SOUNDS IN A PET SHOP, BUT MY HAND IS SO STRONG, DA FIDDLE'S NECK SNAPPED LIKE A STULK OF CELERY!
YOU HAVE THE GRATITUDE OF EVERY PAIR OF EARS IN THE HOUSE! FOR 16 YEARS THE JUDGE HAS BEEN GIVING US CAT FIGHTS HE CALLS BACH!
THE EARL PUTS TOO MUCH FEELING IN HIS MUSIC

Such actions as occurred Wednesday take away our freedom to unionize and the freedom of forming a union is taken away from employes.

BAD MISTAKE

"I feel that a bad mistake was made and it is spreading over the country like wildfire. The American people are in a fair way now to learn what government of, for, and by the people means. They are awaking to the fact that there is a dictator who would cram his ideas down their throats.

"A union in Ward's would be freely accepted. But what union? People at Ward's didn't seem to know just what union they wanted

"America, more than any other country in the world, is free from class distinctions. Jeffersonian simplicity still permeates the homes and the conduct of right thinking people.

"I think the educational system is at fault in not telling young pupils that the government is made up of each and every one of them, that a Congress is elected by the people to serve them in their country's business.

"All citizens of America own it. They don't give a damn for the person who rises up and says, 'I am the dictator of this country; you will do as I say.'

"Freedom is guts—guts manifested by right-thinking people, by people who recognize their own rights and who question imposition of others upon those rights.

"This case now will go to the courts, where it should have gone long ago. It will be a test case. Its outcome will determine definitely whether or not free enterprise is to be practised without molestation, or whether all business men are to live in fear of confiscation and ruin.

"From childhood up, we should be taught to watch him who governs. If we are not vigilant, there may arise amongst us a dictator and we shall all be enslaved."

Digressing from his main theme, Avery then told briefly about the founding of Montgomery Ward's. He said:

"Aaron Montgomery Ward was a poor boy. His parents chose a career for him. He disliked it. He worked in a store. Because he craved wider knowledge, he changed from one place to another.

"At one of the stores he was in the accounting department. One day a load of merchandise came. He was sent down to check it as it came from the car. He tallied each article on an invoice sheet. He noticed a number at the left side of the work sheet and another at the right side. He learned that that was a code, and that one of the figures recorded the price paid. He went home and figured out the profits to be made by buying merchandise in large quantities.

APPLAUSE FOR PRINCIPLE

"He saved $1600. With that he started the mail order business. In five years, the original $1600 grew to a capital of $8,000,000."

Asked his reaction to the ovation and vote of confidence accorded him by stockholders at yesterday's meeting, and his re-election by the board of directors as chairman of the board, Avery said:

"All that was nothing personal. The applause was for a principle. The stockholders seemed to approve of my action. They realized I stood for a principle. I was not going to forsake the ship because a group of men with papers with red ribbons on them came in and said, 'We are taking over.'"

"I displayed a determination to remain. I did so because I was convinced that I was right and was living out my conviction."

F. D. Called Ward Plant Non-Essential

Army Quits Wards CIO Election Agreed

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—Army troops withdrew today from government-held Chicago property of Montgomery Ward & Co. shortly before company and CIO union counsel agreed that a new collective bargaining representation election should be held if the National Labor Relations Board so decides.

John A. Barr, Ward's attorney, nad Francis Heisler, union counsel, told Samuel H. Jaffe, NLRB trial examiner conducting a hearing on the union certification question, they would stipulate that an election to determine whether the union represents a majority of eligible employes was appropriate but would leave the question of deciding whether a new electio nbe held to the NLRB.

The lawyers said the NLRB could order a new election or could decide it was unnecessary and recertify the union as representative of the majority without further balloting. They also said they were not in agreement on the number of bargaining units involved and whether part-time employes should vote, if an election is ordered, and would leave those points, too, to the NLRB.

Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce, in charge under government seizure, said he had requested Brig.-Gen. John F. Davis of the Sixth Service Command to withdraw troops because "there is now no reason for the presence of troops."

Taylor said this referred to the federal court restraining order obtained by Atty.-Gen. Biddle prohibiting the company and its officers from interfering with government officials in charge under direction of President Roosevelt.

Gen. Davis immediately ordered the platoon of about 35 soldiers to leave patroling posts they had held at the general offices, retail store and warehouse.

The helmeted soldiers, with bayonetted rifles and full field kit, left while Saturday shoppers traded on the federally-operated store.

Taylor also announced he had appointed John D. Goodloe, special assistant to the secretary of commerce and general counsel for the RFC, as grievance officer to deal with the CIO United Mail Order, Warehouse & Retail Employes, Local 20.

Jack Flays F. D. In Ward Seizure

CLEVELAND, April 29 (INS)—President Roosevelt was sharply sharply criticized today by William S. "Bill" Jack, president of Jack ⅞ Heintz, as having "no damned business" taking over the Montgomery Ward plant in Chicago,

In answer to a question after he had given a speech at the Women's City Club, Jack, head of a war plant, asserted:

"It is crazy to think this government can take over a plant that isn't making anything connected with the war. There is real danger to America in all this, danger to the America we have all known.

"Franklin D. Roosevelt has no right by Constitution or law to use military force to take over a plant whose business is not related in any direct way to the war effort. He has no damned business using the government's power that way.

"I intend to vote against the New Deal in November."

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Chairman McCarran (D.) of Nevada of the Senate judiciary committee outdistanced spirited competition today in the congressional race to investigate the Administration's seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co. properties at Chicago.

Acting under authority of a resolution directing a judiciary subcommittee to inquire into the legislative authority of all executive orders and presidential directives issued under the Roosevelt Administration, McCarran disclosed he had an investigator "already in Chicago."

Says World Peace Depends on Force

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—With Republicans giving every indication of making foreign policy a major Presidential campaign issue, Sen. Austin (R.) of Vermont, proposes the creation of a post-war world court backed by adequate military power to enforce international law against prospective aggressors.

In an address yesterday before the international law section of the American Bar Ass'n here, Austin, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said he was "firmly persuaded that peace cannot be established by negotiation alone."

He urged American participation in an international organization of sovereign nations which would a id in establishing a fundamental code of conduct for nations

"Our aim ought to be the extension of the unity that now exists among the so-called United Nations to include the political and judicial fields," Austn said.

Sen. Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan, responding to questions the London Daily Mirror said were "causing uneasiness in Britain," voiced in a statement the personal opinion that if the Republicans win the Presidency in November the British can expect the new administration "vigilantly (to) protect essential and legitimate American self-interest precisely as Mr. Churchill repeatedly asserts his vigorous purpose to protect British self-interest."

But Sen. Brooks (R.) of Illinois gave a South Bend, Ind., audience another slant on Republican thinking. Brooks said that the American people know now "that their boys are dying not only to give the British Empire a new lease on life, but another opportunity to expand its imperialism."

"They know," Brooks declared, "that we are depleting our precious national resources, both human and material, not only to help Russia survive but to help Russia become the colossus of Europe, if not the world's most expansive and formidable power."

And Gov. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, Republican presidential candidate, in a radio question-and-answer forum at Columbus, said that there should be "no central world authority dominating our destiny.

Juke Box Scream Brings Her Aid

PHILADELPHIA, April 29 (AP)—a woman's scream sounded from a juke box in a North Philadelphia taproom early today:

"Please send us help!"

It was Miss Anna Roche, 30, crying out from the record room of the Automatic Recording Machine Company a mile away. A man was holding her by the throat and dragging her across the room.

A party of taproom patrons sped to the company's office in automobiles. But another juke box hostess, Rita Smith, 22, had escaped and brought police.

The assailant, booked as Fred Wizart, 43, was charged with assault and battery, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. Miss Roche said his voice resembled that of a man who had talked with her frequently on the juke box telephone system.

800 Pullman Plant Workers Walk Out

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., April 29 (INS)—A strike of 800 key workers halted war production at the Pullman - Standard Manufacturing Company's Michigan City plant, forcing 1500 other employes into idleness.

The strike, which was called in protest over the delay in settling an arbitration case involving the discharge of a grievance committee member, occurred only three days after a five-day stoppage ended at the company's plant in Hammond, Ind.

Lightning Blacks Gar Wood's Eye

MIAMI, Fla., April 29 (AP)—Gar Wood today added the experience of being struck by lightning to the list of narrow escapes he has had during a long career as a motorboat racing champion.

A black eye was the only apparent injury sustained by the 63-year-old racer when lighting struck in a group which had just alighted from his plane after arriving at a Miami airport Friday.

300,000 Gallons Of Fuel Destroyed

A. P. Wright, Gulf Co. agent, said it was doubtful whether anything except the tanks were saved. He estimated the loss as ranging from $250,000 to $75,000.

Ely Vote Blow At Fourth Term

With official tabulation of Boston's presidential primary vote completed, new evidence of the hostility of voters to the move to keep President Roosevelt in office 16 years was seen today in the victory of ex-Gov. Joseph B. Ely, outspoken critic of the New Deal, over Rep. John W. McCormack and all other Administration supporters.

One of a slate of 12 unopposed candidates for delegates-at-large to the Democratic national convention, the former Governor, an announced candidate for the presidential nomination, won third place while McCormack, on the same slate, landed sixth.

Dist.-Atty. William J. Foley, another anti-Fourth Term leader, also finished ahead of McCormack by winning fourth place. At the top in the balloting was Sen. David I. Walsh, who thus far has refused to endorse the fourth term movement.

In the voting for Republican delegate-at-large, Gov. Saltonstall topped the list of seven unopposed candidates with 5665 votes.

Think Fast, America

THE EMPLOYMENT of military authorities for the seizure of the Montgomery Ward property in Chicago, and of actual physical violence for the ejection of the president of the company from his offices, presents the American people with a grave and ominous situation.

It has long been evident that the disposition and determination of the Roosevelt Administration was to create and conduct a government of men rather than of law.

Now we have that dire situation in grim fact.

No thoughtful American can view it without alarm.

President Roosevelt is responsible for it, by arbitrarily exercising powers he has arrogantly assumed to have.

Chairman May of the Military Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives says "the power (of the President or anyone else) to take over private, commercial concerns not engaged in war production DOES NOT EXIST."

Representative Smith of Virginia, co-author of the War Labor Disputes Act from which the President pretends his authority is derived, asserts:

"No one in Congress ever contemplated that the act should be used as a vehicle to take over non-war stores.

"All the law provides is that the President shall have power to take over any mine, plant or facility that manufactures, mines or produces goods used in the war effort."

The Montgomery Ward Company does NOT manufacture, mine or produce goods for the war effort.

It is a retail establishment, serving civilian customers primarily and conducting its business largely by mail order.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has MADE HIS OWN LAW in this regrettable and violent instance.

It is true that he has the assurance of his "Charlie McCarthy" Attorney-General that what he has done is "legal."

"In time of war," says Attorney-General Biddle, "when the existence of the nation is at stake, this aggregate of powers includes authority to take REASONABLE STEPS to prevent nationwide labor disturbances that threaten to interfere seriously with the conduct of the war."

How can Mr. Biddle make such a statement, and how can President Roosevelt act according to it, with recollection of their subservience to striking labor organizations in actual and vital war production industries, and KEEP STRAIGHT FACES?

Do they think the American people have forgotten how the Roosevelt Administration CRAWLED before John L. Lewis during the coal strikes?

Do they think the people do not know that machinist unions in the San Francisco Bay region have called eighteen strikes holding up vital war wark since 1940, and thirteen SINCE PEARL HARBOR?

President Roosevelt and his Administration have consistently and persistently met labor obstruction to actual war work by acceding to labor demands.

President Roosevelt is only brave and bold in his arbitrary and arrogant assumption and exercise of power when his adversary and victim is HELPLESS INDUSTRY which he regards as politically hostile to him and which he thinks is unpopular with the people.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE had better think straight about this matter and THINK FAST.

As Representative Dewey of Illinois has said in calling for a Congressional investigation of the matter, it is "the culmination of a series of arbitrary, dictatorial and illegal actions" reaching a new high in OFFICIAL LAWLESSNESS.

The American people are no longer facing merely the danger of, but the actual REALITY of "a government of men, not of law."

If that reality can prevail, democracy cannot survive.

If it is our permanent condition, the free institutions which we cherish and for which we have supposed we are fighting in this war, CANNOT EXIST.

An Urgent Wartime Appeal

MR. CARL DREYFUS, president of the Board of Trustees of the Boston City Hospital, has made a public appeal which should interest hundreds of humanitarian-minded women. Mr. Dreyfus, speaking for the important body he heads, says:

"Your City Hospital, in Boston, is asking your help.

"Since the city gave it to you, this hospital has stood ready to assist you as a citizen of Boston when you need it, in a sudden illness or an accident in the street.

"Our wards are overcrowded, and we have not sufficient nurses to care for our patients adequately.

"Now, we need women volunteers to help us, a few hours daily with or without nursing experience, to relieve our nurses so they can devote their time to the very sick patients.

"This is an emergency. If you can give three or four hours a day once a week, please call KEN. 8600, Ine 519."

Here, surely, is an opportunity for unselfish and extremely beneficial public service in this period of wartime emergency.

We hope many women will accept the opportunity.

HERBERT HOOVER
Guest of the Banshees

WASHINGTON, April 29—I wish it thoroughly understood from the beginning that I am a great admirer of Mrs. Roosevelt and could never bring myself really to criticize her. Furthermore, I have always felt a bond with the lady because both of us are proud, dignified, and stately in bearing, except me.

I have always contended that one of the most impressive and inspiring sights in Washington is Mrs. Roosevelt, looking West. Consequently, it tears my very heart strings to see her wallowing in humility.

Also, I feel that it is practically un-American and calculated to undermine the very pillars of democracy. Because, if we naturally imperious people start kicking ourselves around, goodness knows what effect it will have on the proletariat.

As you doubtless know, I worry about the proletariat day and night. In fact, I was saying to one of my equerries—the one who looks like a horse—only the other evening:

"What do you hear from the proletariat?"

The thing that is causing me all this distress was a piece that Mrs. Roosevelt had recently in her column "My Day." She was warning people who apply personally to the President and the First Lady for help that there are limits to what the Roosevelts can do for them.

The particular case she cited was that of a soldier who wanted something or other done and induced the President to do it for him. In consequence, Mrs. Roosevelt said, the White House has been swamped with similar appeals. But Mrs. Roosevelt continued:

"Obviously, neither the President nor I can direct that anything is to be done or not done . . . Whenever a letter comes to us, we send it over to someone we think can not only investigate the case but who is able to find out whether the department can do anything about it . . . The decision will rest with responsible people in charge of that particular activity and not with us."

If you want my opinion, I think this is an outrage! It is high time this country gave some power to Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt!

I TOLD YOU yesterday I had been up in New York but I forgot to mention that the purpose was to be at the Banshees luncheon, attended by the newspaper publishers, who were there in convention assembled.

I discovered that all publishers are fine, upstanding, and hearty fellows, whom I revere and admire—and, if they will only buy my column, I will also adore them, too.

Among those present was Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, who is also publisher of the Houston Chronicle. He confided to me that he has laid off training because he does not expect to have a return bout with Eugene Meyer, publisher of the Washington Post. The first Jones-Meyer fistic setto a couple of years ago ended in a draw, although many spectators contended Jones was the fresher at the finish.

At the luncheon I was introduced to a young fellow named Sinatra who was identified as a singer. He sang a couple of songs, and, although I am no judge, I thought he did pretty good and should soon get some professional engagements.

After this young fellow sang, however, they called a number of other songbirds from the audience. They were identified in turn as Secretary Jones, Commander Gene Tunney, Brig.-Gen. Robert L. Denig, of the Marines; Capt. Leland P. Lovette, chief of Navy Public Relations; Brig.-Gen. Gerald Thomas, chief of staff at the Guadalcanal operations; George McManus, the cartoonist, and George Healey, of OWI.

The Sinatra boy was chosen leader of the double quartet and asked: "What do youse want to sing?" This will probably astound you no end, but the quartet chose a number called "Sweet Adeline."

After the rendition was over, Bugs Baer, the toastmaster, said:

"That's what we are fighting for—to stop things like that!"

BEFORE THE luncheon started, Kingsbury Smith, distinguished Washington correspondent, was detailed to go upstairs and collect a "Mr. Hoover." He located the suite and told a man who greeted him that he was ready to escort the head G-man downstairs.

The man looked a bit perplexed, but told Smith that Mr. Hoover was ready. Smith looked around but couldn't see anybody who resembled John Edgar. A gentleman seated at a desk with his back turned swung around and Smith muttered to himself:

"Running the FBI must be a trying job. How Hoover has changed!"

The "Mr. Hoover" turned out to be the only living ex-President of the United States!

JOE E. LEWIS, the comedian, came in looking somewhat strained about the eyes. He explained that he was not used to getting up so early, it then being nearly 2 p. m. He kept looking around and his eyes began to get more and more googly. Finally in a husky stage whisper he said:

"I have been looking at Herbert Hoover and Toots Shor for an hour now—and I still can't tell which is which!"

Peter Lind Hayes gave imitations of Hollywood celebrities. "These imitations are not intended to be offensive," he explained. "They just turn out that way."

Miss Gertrude Niesen sang a song "I Want to Get Married," which is not exactly the kind of lullaby you would croon to little kiddies. I am glad to report that Ex-President Hoover did not laugh.

Things of that sort, of course, would not go in Washington. But New York is denied many of the cultural advantages we have in the Capital.

—BROWNING.

AS FOR meeting people who knew great men of the dim past, I have known a number who met and talked with Abraham Lincoln. In fact, I knew his son, Robert Todd Lincoln, who died in 1926. I also knew a man whose grandfather knew George Washington. Speaking of meeting historical figures of the past, I once met Colonel Mosby of Mosby's Guerillas. A very interesting old boy. . . . "Do you like my hair better this way than the way I had it before?" My girl friend is still asking me such questions. I continue to be baffled by them. I just can't make the grade as a hair-do commentator. However, I have noticed our feminine friends are having difficulty in matching hats with hair-dos. If they can't make them match, they abandon the hat. Business men should view this situation with alarm. Abandoning hats by women in great numbers will bring unemployment in the millinery industry. Unemployment in any industry will adversely affect the post-war business situation. Business men should, therefore, become interested in their wives' hats. Also, their secretaries' hats. The interest in the secretary's hat should be discreetly handled. The feminine view is that a man's interest in the appearance of a woman's hat is inspired by a deeper interest. On second thought—you better skip the interest in the headgear of your amanuensis. Just concentrate on your wife's hats.

ASIDES: Seems to be an astonishing number of young women divorcing husbands who are now in the armed services. A wife must want a divorce very badly to do that . . . Don Gentile, the heroic flying ace, hrs stated one of his greatest enjoyments is in smoking a good cigar. Didn't I tell you this was a cigar smoker's war? Consider what cigar smoker Gen. MacArthur is doing in the Pacific. Name a cigarette or pipe smoker who is doing better.

PROPOSALS: Said George Moore: "To represent in a novel a girl proposing marriage to a man would be deemed unnatural, but nothing is more common; there are few young men who have not received at least a dozen offers—nay, more." (Note—That was written in 1888. At present the average young man receives about 18 proposals of marriage a year. A U. S. Marine recently informed this department that during a seven-day furlough in Chicago he received nine proposals of marriage.)

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—In what popular song can I find the lines, "Weddings make a lot of people awful sad, but if you're not the groom they're not so bad?" A—That is from the song "Makin' Whoopee," popularized by Eddie Cantor about 15 years ago. Q—My husband, in his 40s, is attracted by a girl of 18. Can your Mules & Men Department advise me how to handle this matter? A—The problem you mention can be a highly technical one requiring a detailed study of your domestic career and the characters of all members of the love triangle you mention. We regret our Mules & Men Department service to subscribers does not include the solving of such matters. We can only extend our sympathy, suggest a philosophical attitude and recommend you intensify your efforts to keep yourself attractive in the event you may be confronted with the necessity of procuring another husband.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: After taking part in a curious looking bout in Chile, Heavyweight Arturo Godoy was arrested. That is fair enough. A fighter staging a fake bout could be legally arrested in the United States. Isn't a fake fight obtaining money by false pretenses? . . . That war film, "Memphis Belle," the record of an actual bombing mission, is a wonderful picture. Let's have more of this type of picture and fewer of those fictitious war pictures which have so many scenes of some "Oomph Boy" film star being very, very brave . . . "Whisky Made from Potatoes Sold in New York," says a headline. Is that news? Irish whisky is made from potatoes. And it is very good, too.

HOLLYWOOD, April 29—Just as Teresa Wright was on the verge of starting her first picture in over two years for her boss, Sam Goldwyn, she has to bow out of "Those Endearing Young Charms" for the best reason in the world. Then there was the threatened lawsuit of Pauline Leader Brand, wife of Millen Brand, author of "Outward Room," from which "Secrets in the Dark" was taken. Mrs. Brand was getting ready to file a suit, alleging she had written half the story and that it was based on her life.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Virginia Field and Paul Douglas, who were reported estranged not so long ago, will welcome the stork; Harry James has definitely been classified 4-F, according to some one who should know; Paul Lukas is politely but firmly declining the role offered him in "Strangers in Our Midst" ("Petrified Forest"); Monty Woolley has at long last departed for his favorite Saratoga; Ann and Jack Warner are on the train headed for New York; Glenda Farrell has asked for her release from "School for Brides" and is coming to Hollywood to make a movie for Columbia; Leslie Brooks is entertaining Lieut. NEW YORK, April 29—A couple of years ago Joan was one of the prettiest and smartest—chorines in the night club division. Nobody knew it better than Joan did.

Being 17 and beautiful, she was besieged by beaus, but after months of playing the field she began going exclusively with Pete, who made a slightly dishonest but undeniably substantial income through shady doings at the race track, about which Joan knew little and cared less.

In the night club where she worked Joan from time to time began to meet a better class of people than she'd ever encountered outside the society column, which she perused regularly.

★ ★ ★

JOAN WAS SMART enough to realize how very dumb she was, which is being very smart indeed. And she was determined not to stay that way. So she went to Pete, who was strictly a dese and dose guy himself, and told him she wanted to take a complete course on how to be a lady.

Pete agreed to finance the experiment, so Joan quit the night club, and began going to tutors and charm schools.

Pete was terribly proud of her. And when she met him during the evenings and tried out her big words on him, he loved it. He boasted of his superior sweetie to all his racket pals. He even went so far as to propose marriage, a startling innovation for Pete. But Joanie put him off gracefully.

★ ★ ★

THEIR DATES were gradually getting scarcer. Joan had confidence now, and she was beginning to go out occasionally with some of the nicer people she had met at the club. And, strangely enough, when her name got into the columns a couple of times with the social boys, Pete didn't mind, because she always came back to him.

But one day Joan married a wealthy and socially prominent young soldier, and the most surprised man in town was Pete, who found out about it while reading a gossip column over a cup of coffee. Since then he hasn't even been able to get her on the phone.

But you can't print that. Pete's courting a new girl now, Pretty. But not very ambitious. Uses the wrong fork now and then. And if she ever starts using the right one—Pete will break her arm.

Star Shine By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, April 29—A group of characters were sitting around in the 20th Century-Fox commissary, and soon they started talking about a Henry Nemo, who they knew on Broadway and referred to as a character.

Snag Werris told when this Henry Nemo was playing a summer hotel in the Catskills. The hotel owner wanted a smash finale to the act, something that would keep the audience awake. So Nemo and his troupe of six came out and pelted the audience with apples. The audience threw the apples back, and a big apple tight took place and they had to call the sheriff to stop the battle and the show.

Then Harry Warren got in the Nemo swing and recalled when Henry took a job as an entertainer in a New Jersey night club. The pay was $9 a night, and it didn't include food or liquid. Before Nemo went on for the first time, the boss of the night club said to him: "I don't want you to be funny. Don't tell jokes. The people come here to drink and talk. They don't want to be interrupted."

"But why did you hire me?" asked Nemo.

"So my customers can say they were in a night club," said the owner. "Just get up there, introduce the singer and get off fast."

★ ★ ★

THIS ANNOYED Nemo, and when he went on he proceeded to tell three of his funniest stories. Nobody listened. The place was very noisy. Nemo turned to the local Kostelanetz (three pieces) and said, "Play for me 'A Day at the Olympics' and play it loud."

"But we don't know it," said the leader.

"Just play the chromatic scale and give me the loudest drum roll you can."

Nemo got the drum roll and grabbed for the nearest customer's chair. "A Day at the Olympics," he shouted. "First the hundred yard hurdles." And Nemo vaulted over the chair, upsetting the customer and three drinks. Then Nemo picked up a plate. "The discus throw," he shouted. And he threw the plate into the audience.

By now, everyone was watching him, and the owner of the club was making toward him.

"The hundred-yard dash," shouted Nemo. He got down on his knees for a running start and ran out of the place.

"You're fired," shouted the owner of the club. But Henry Nemo didn't hear him, for by then he was practically at Lindy's.

"Yeah," said B. S. Pully, "those were the days when show business had color. Now I've got to go on a set and emote on chalk marks. If I move a little, I'm not even in the show. And what do I get for it—nothing but a fortune."

VARIETY SAYS THAT "BOSTON REPORTS the closing of 40 clubs, as of last week, and majority of the remaining niteries have notified bookers to discontinue lining up performers since entertainment policy is being eliminated" . . . The story concerns the 30 per cent "night club tax" . . . We do not like to take issue with Variety, which is factual in the extreme, but if 40 clubs have closed in this district within a week, they have been very minor night clubs indeed . . . The situation is so serious, nevertheless, that casualties will be grave unless an adjustment is reached in Congress . . . Slicing the tax in half is proposed by a hastily-thrown-up Washington lobby.

Miss Perry, it developed, is a Todd protege . . . She began her brief, skyrocketing career three years ago as a chorus girl in "Star and Garter," the first Todd smash-hit . . . As the summer of the first year of "Star and Garter" approached, Producer Todd decided to give his chorus girls a two week vacation with pay (—the first time anything like that ever happened) . . . The company manager assigned the vacations, and Miss Perry's two-weeks, it turned out, came in July . . . Miss Perry decided to appeal to Producer Todd for a change in the dates . . .

★ ★ ★

"I WAS SHAKING with fright," Mimi recalled. "Under our contracts, none of us was entitled to a vacation, with pay or without pay . . . But something quite important was on my mind, and I got up enough courage to ask Mr. Todd if I could have the last two weeks in June instead of the first two weeks in July" . . . Mike granted the request, readily enough, but he became curious . . . "Why do you want those particular weeks?" he demanded. "Why—you see—Mr. Todd, I'm graduating from high school and I'd like a vacation while we're getting ready," was the reply . . . The child actually was working in "Star and Garter" at night, and attending high school in the daytime, it turned out. (The age-limit for performers is different in New York).

Ad Men Join Paper Drive

More than 100 advertising and promotion experts in Boston will serve as an "Organize, Report and Observe Club" to assist the Advertising Club of Boston when the drive for business office waste paper starts Monday, Chairman George C. Wiswell announced today.

Members will function in each of the 20 districts in the downtown business section from which paper will be collected during May.

The first collection will be made Monday in District 1, which comprises the area including State st., Central st., Doane st., Atlantic ave., from State to Milk sts.; Water st., from Batterymarch to Broad sts., and Broad st., from Milk to State sts. Both sides of each street in the division will be canvassed.

Chairman Oliver S. Drummond of the "Organize, Report, Observe Club," informed all business firms that representatives of the Advertising Club will assist them in planning their participation in the nationwide campaign to provide enough waste paper to meet military demands, and to assure new supplies for civilian needs.

Officials estimate that from 1000 to 2000 tons of high grade paper should be salvaged in Boston's effort.

Headquarters for the waste paper drive have been established at the office of the Advertising Club in the Hotel Statler. Any firms seeking information are requested to telephone HUBbard 0472.

Guy Post, Veteran Actor, Files Bankruptcy Petition

LOS ANGELES, April 29 (AP)—After 51 years as an actor, Guy Bates Post is broke.

The 68-year-old footlight veteran, who appeared in some 60 stage plays and more recently a smaller number of movies, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday. His petition states his debts total $14,436 and his assets nothing.

Insolvency climaxes a career in which for years Post was an outstanding favorite of the legitimate stage. Perhaps his most celebrated role was as Omar Khayyam in "Omar the Tentmaker," which gave 959 consecutive performances at the Lyric Theater in New York.

His first New York appearance had been at Hoyt's, on Madison sq. in "My Lady Dainty" in 1901. He played a dual role in a dramatization of Cooper's "The Spy" and had the chief part in "The Heir of the Hoorah" for two years.

Other plays in which he appeared included "The Bridge," "The Witch" and "The Bird of Paradise."

Twice he toured Australia. London performances followed.

He came to Hollywood in 1936 and later opened a little theater where he directed plays between film jobs.

Although he has been on studio call lists, his bankruptcy petition states his earnings in the last year aggregate only $1096.

Missing in Action

HANOVER, April 29 — Staff Sergt. Elton J. Hill, son of Mrs. Elmira Hill of King st., West Hanover, flight engineer on a large bomber recently sent to Italy, is missing in action over Romania, according to a War Department message received here.

Gable Praises Campaign Against Reds in Movies

HOLLYWOOD, April 29 (AP)—A campaign against what one speaker termed "a strong infiltration of Communists in the motion picture industry" was opened last night at a meeting of the Hollywood Picture Alliance.

Capt. Clark Gable of the Army air forces spoke briefly and said he was happy to hear an active campaign had been started against Communist groups in the industry.

Screen Writer Howard Emmett Rogers, addressing more than 200 producers, writers, actors and labor representatives, declared:

"The bulk of the industry, from the top executives down to the laborers, stands loyal to the American concept of life. However, in the last several years there has been a strong infiltration of Communists in the motion picture industry."

Producer James McGuinness said the alliance "has been the victim of a smear campaign and has been accused of being anti-semitic." He denied the organization was anti-Semitic and said the most active opponents of Communism in the United States were members of the Jewish race.

Million Chinese Starve

NEW YORK, April 29 (INS)—The Chungking radio said that more than a million Chinese had died of starvation in enemy-occupied Kwangtung Province last year while Japanese-controlled Canton, former capital of Kwangtung, exported large quantities of rice to Hong Kong and other occupied territories.

Plastic Rivets Speed Bomber Output

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 29 (AP)—Plastic rivets, inserted and then expanded with compressed air to save assembly line time, are the latest wrinkle in construction of bomber planes.

Douglas Aircraft Co. announced the new synthetic rivets had been used successfully on experimental planes and soon would be employed on the regular production line. They were invented by S. H. Phillips, plant engineer.

Old, New Hits For Pops Fans

The blend of popular classics and such popular music, old and new, as is suitable for performance by a symphony orchestra, that has made the Pop Concerts irresistible entertainment for more than half a century, again will characterize them during their 59th season, beginning Tuesday evening in Symphony Hall. The occasion will make Arthur Fiedler's 15th season as conductor.

The opening night program will be notable for the latest addition to its endlessly delightful repertoire, selections from the Rodgers and Hart score, "Oklahoma!" Broadway's first musical.

Other program items will be the popular "Holiday for Strings," Elgar's march, "Pomp and Circumstance"; the overture to Weber's "Der Freischutz"; Prokofieff's "Classical Symphony" Gavotte and his march from his "Love of Three Oranges"; Bach's "Wachet Auf" from cantata 160, some Strauss waltzes and Walton's "Fascade" suite.

KATHLEEN ROCHE will be one of the principals in "Iolanthe," Gilbert and Sullivan offering at the Opera House next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon.

TRAGIC ROMANCE—Events abroad threaten the romance between Peter Van Eyck and K. T. Stevens in the William Cameron Menzies production, "Address Unknown," opening on the Trans-Lux screen Wednesday.

IN RHYTHM—George Murphy's dancing and Ginny Simm's vocalizing should spell slick entertainment for State and Orpheum patrons when "Broadway Rhythm," Metro's technicolor musical, brings them to these houses on Thursday.

'Snow White' Sets Records

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which is ending its run at the Majestic Theater tomorrow night but is being held over at the Normandie Theater, has played to more people during its dual-theater engagement here than it did when the Hub first saw it six years ago.

In the past two weeks here, "Snow White" has broken every attendance and box office record, as it has throughout the country in this smash return run.

After tomorrow night's final showing of "Snow White," the Majestic will close preparatory to the local premiere of "Song of Bernadette" at this theater on Wednesday evening.

Weston Bridal

By BETTY ALDEN

AT A SMALL FAMILY WEDDING next Friday, Mrs. Anna Lothrop Dana of Weston will be married to Mr. George Newell Chamberlain, Jr., of Chicago, son of Mrs. George N. Chamberlain of Cambridge. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot will officiate at Ridgehurst, the bride's home on Orchard ave

Mrs Dana will be given in marriage by her brother, Maj. Eaton Shaw Lothrop, and her teen-age daughter Diana will be maid of honor. After a honeymoon at Sea Island the couple will make their home at Ridgehurst.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Eaton, Jr., cousins of the bride, are giving a dinner party for the couple Wednesday evening. Mrs. Dana, daughter of Mrs. Warren Eaton Lothrop of Weston, graduated from Waynefleet and the Portland School of Fine Arts

WARNER-SIZER

In a picturesque country church in Bethany, Ct., Hilda Foster Sizer, daughter of Maj. and Mrs Theodore Sizer of Bethany, becomes the bride this afternoon of Sturgis Warner, son of Mrs. Roger S. Warner of Boston and Ipswich. The bride's younger sisters, Elizabeth and Alice, are bridesmaids and Roger S. Warner is best man for his brother.

Mrs. Warner and her daughter, Rachel, former president of the Junior League, went to Bethany for the festivities. Sturgis, now with the War Dept., in Washington, was prominent in Hasty Pudding affairs during his undergraduate days at Harvard and is a graduate of Harvard Law

LUNCHING AT THE RITZ

Mrs. Albert Navarro (Sister Frothingham) looking like a fashion plate in a swingy emerald wool coat with black accessories and a black chiffon handky tied Alice in Wonderland fashion over her netted blonde tresses, arrived to meet friends for lunch. She and Al, both musically gifted, will be crooning lullabys next summer.

Mrs. John Lyman (Cynthia Forbes) made a luncheon threesome with her in-laws, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lyman who live at the Ritz in the wintertime. Cynthia wore a springlike print dress and perky little rose and green flower hat. She spends much of her time with the Lymans while her captain husband is away.

Mrs. Henry K. White, accenting her tailored gray suit with gay red blouse and hat, lunched with Mrs. Morrill-Wiggin whose fetching straw bonnet had a halo of tiny multi-colored ribbon flowers. The former hustled off after dessert and coffee to plant another row of seeds in her victory garden.

The face framing curvette of white bouvardia Olivia Ames wore with her black reefer attracted many admiring glances.

COMMAND YOURSELF to beauty with 10 sure-fire rules . . . that will do a grand job for you and on you. Compiled by Miss Mary Stuyvesant, beauty counsellor for a well-known cosmetic house . . . they are recommended in her Good-Looks Clinic for junior hostesses throughout the country . . . those patriotic groups of girls who are doing so much for the men in uniform.

If you are to keep energy hitting on high in this look-your-best program . . . observe your eat-for-beauty rules with lots of fruits, vegetables and milk on your menu. If you have to watch your weight . . . ration sweets, starches and desserts . . . but don't cut energy foods.

For that bright-eyed look . . . eight hours' sleep every working day must be yours. The Navy prescribes it for the WAVES . . . and the Navy ought to know. Get some fresh air, walk part way to work and devote 10 minutes to pepping-up exercises.

Learn how to save face with a basic, cleansing program that is thorough. Learn to stretch your makeup . . . for time's too valuable for patchups . . . so "anchor" makeup for longest wear with a splendid foundation that will give you service.

KEEP YOUR HAIR SIMPLE

Start makeup with a clean sweep. Don't ever add new powder over old. Unless you start with a clean surface . . . you'll grind dust right into the pores. And how about your hair, Miss Stuyvesant knowingly points out. Don't we beg of you . . . have a lot of curls that need attention every few minutes. Keep your hair simple . . . that is the smart hairdo of the moment, anyway . . . and add bows and flowers for the feminine touch . . . or a new colored hairnet to keep it sleek and smooth.

If you do jobs like dusting or working with carbon paper . . . protect your hands with a softening hand-cream that will protect and make them lovely. And, have at least, one relaxer up your sleeve. Try this at night . . . sit in an easy chair and let your neck and shoulders go completely limp. Drop head forward . . . as if it were a dead weight . . . then roll it around to the right, back, then left and forward again. Remember, relaxing exercises help improve your poise . . . so they have a double place on your job-beauty schedule.

Fashion

PERFECT as a wedding or going away costume . . . is this navy and white tailleur so effectively worn by RKO actress Barbara Hale. Note the crossed idea of the navy, white and gray braid used for trimming . . . and high-style accent. A corsage of orchids . . . white rolled brim straw sailor trimmed with a navy veil . . . and navy gloves and shoes complete an outfit equal to an important engagement.—R. M.

Biscuit Treats for May.

By MARTHA LEE

ALTHOUGH A FAVORITE baking powder biscuit recipe may signify flaky golden-brown biscuits, to the culinary artist such a recipe also means new and interesting springtime foods for her family. With the following biscuit recipe as her guide, the clever cook designs attractive foods for spring and summer 1944.

BAKING POWDER BISCUITS

2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
2 to 4 tbsp. shortening
2-3 to ⅔ cup milk

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add enough milk to make dough soft. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently one-half minute.

MAY BASKETS

One gay way to start the month of May is by serving May Baskets made with rounds of biscuit dough. Roll out dough ¼ inch thick. Cut with floured 3-inch biscuit cutter. Place one biscuit round on bottom of each individual baking casserole. Line sides of casseroles by overlapping 5 biscuits around each casserole, setting the biscuits on edge. Press edges of biscuits on sides firmly to edges of biscuit on bottom. Fill biscuit baskets with cooked fresh asparagus tips and colorful slices of hard-cooked eggs in smooth white sauce. A dash of paprika on top the creamed mixture adds friendly warmth. Bake May baskets in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 20 minutes.

As a luncheon entree, May Baskets thriftily save precious ration points and make luscious use of this favorite biscuit dough.

Dinner entrees requiring the minimum number of ration points are always welcome additions to the recipe collection. Meat Vegetable Twists are a new trick with old familiar ingredients. The foundation for these twists is standard biscuit dough. As little as ½ cup of ground cooked meat, dressed up with a half cup of chopped carrots makes enough filling for 4 generous twists.

MEAT-VEGETABLE TWISTS

To make Meat Vegetable Twists, roll biscuit dough ¼ inch thick. Cut in 5-inch squares. Spread ¼ cup of well seasoned meat-carrot mixture on ½ biscuit squares. Cut dough which has not been covered with mixture, with knife or pastry cutter, cutting from outer edge toward filling to form ½ inch strips. Twist each strip and fold across filling. Tuck end of strip under edge of biscuit dough and press firmly in place. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot oven (425 deg. F.) 20 minutes.

VICTORY GARDEN SPECIAL

Add ⅓ cup chopped bacon to the flour mixture for a standard biscuit recipe. Cut or rub in shortening and add milk. Roll biscuit dough 1 inch thick and cut with 3-inch cutter. Bake bacon biscuits on ungreased baking sheets in moderately hot oven (425 deg. F.) 15 minutes. Top biscuits with a cooked vegetable mixture of garden-fresh asparagus tips and colorful carrot rounds in smooth white sauce. This delicious luncheon or dinner entree makes a most inviting as well as thrifty use of the victory garden's early spring arrivals.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Friday —We are all shocked today by the news of Sec. Knox's death. My husband and I have known, of course, tha' he was seriously ill, but we have hoped, as did everyone else, that he would recover. During these years of the war, the secretary has taken many arduous trips. I know well how exhausting such trips are, but he felt that he must see at first hand, and his devotion to duty and his pride in the Navy's achievements made him feel, I am sure, that no personal exertion or sacrifice should be evaded.

★ ★ ★

TO MRS. KNOX and the other members of the family goes our deepest sympathy in these sad hours. There can be only one consolation, and that is that, like the men in the field, he died in the service of his country. War takes a toll of men in all branches of the government service, for work in offices under pressure of war is completely exhausting, and the heads of departments have an especially heavy burden both in their offices and in travel.

★ ★ ★

A DEATH SUCH as this brings one closer to the many people in the country who, day by day, face telegrams from the War and Navy departments announcing the death of loved ones in far away lands. Yesterday one of my visitors told me that over a period of three weeks he had taken to a mother three telegrams announcing first the death of one of her sons, then another son was missing in battle, and finally that the last one was wounded and in a hospital abroad.

Life seems to be so full of sorrow that one only lives from day to day with the hope that the war will soon be over and the prayer that the weight of the world's sorrow will somehow purify humanity and make us all more worthy of God's help in building a better world.

'Fun Band' Unit Cheers Sailors

The "Fun Band" Corps of the Junior Victory Army, a group of young entertainers of East Boston, under sponsorship of Albert Varner, is still carrying on its main home front mission, according to Secretary Grace Cipoletta.

The group consists of musicians, singers and dancers, and has appeared at scores of camps, hospitals, bases and other centers for servicemen.

Their latest entertainment was provided for men of the Merchant Marine at Hotel Bottonian. A USO bus carried the group to the hotel.

More money has been added to the fund of the "Victorettes" Corps, commanded by Audrey Clarke, Dorchester, through the sale of aprons made by the members. At the meeting in the home of Capt. Catherine Kinsella final plans were made for the tea honoring their mothers. Miss Patricia Lynch is sponsor.

Gansett Fans Will Bet Another Million Today

By JACK CONWAY

THERE WILL BE another million dollar betting day at Narragansett Park this afternoon. It is likely that the mutuel handle will surpass that of a week ago when $1,245,342 was poured through the mutuels. I am looking forward to the day when $2,000,000 will be bet at a New England track. It may happen at either Narragansett Park or Suffolk Downs this year.

The $3,176,553 handle at Jamaica last Saturday leads the 1944 money parade. It is believed that Belmont Park, with greater mutuel facilities than Jamaica, will have a handle of $4,000,000 before the season closes.

Mort Mahony

New York has a great many $100 to $1000 bettors which is why the handle moves up so fast at Jamaica, Aqueduct and Belmont. The $10 and $50 bettors are also very common.

"At New York tracks friends of trainers will often bet $5000 and cut the trainer in on the bet if it wins," Mort Mahony, mutuel director, once told me. "This is one of the reasons so many trainers like to have their thoroughbreds racing in New York. They can have part of a big wager without putting up any money themselves."

There has always been considerable big betting at Narragansett Park. For a period there was an account at Narragansett Park which carried $900. A bettor pushed a $1000 bill through a mutuel window for a $100 ticket and didn't wait for his change. He apparently had so much cash that he thought he had given the clerk $100 instead of $1000.

Another Florida Tragedy

JACK BELL, able Miami, Fla., newspaper columnist, tells the story of another service tragedy and of unnecessary grief that was caused a youngster in the air corps. The clipping was forwarded to Boston by Fred W. Dresser, Jr., son of Fred Dresser of the photograph staff of this newspaper. Fred, Jr., is connected with the aviation ordnance department of the Navy, and Bell's story was about one of his pals.

"Now there is another kind of Navy story," writes Bell, "the rental troubles of Harland B. Shelton, a 20-year-old Colorado boy who has been in the Navy a couple of years and who brought his bride to a Miami apartment."

The story then went on to tell how the landlord tried to break the lease on the ground that the serviceman was in arrears in his rent. The serviceman contended he had mailed his rent by registered mail. He had his receipts from the post-office.

The attorney for the landlord, writes Bell, made some statements which didn't set so good with court officials.

"'Shelton isn't doing so much for the war effort,' said the attorney. 'He's out there (Miami air station) as a machinist, probably making more money than he ever made in his life. The young man may not have the patriotism you believe.'"

Bell stated that Shelton paid his rent every month, and that the missing payment was found in the dead letter office.

"And now," adds Bell, "Harland Shelton is dead! He was assigned to ordnance but wanted to fly and volunteered for night flying duty. And Saturday night his plane crashed."

Random Shots at Target

THE RED SOX should play to big week-end crowds . . . Baseball has been doing well this season, and the Sox have more to offer than most clubs . . . Joe Cronin believes that with a little more hitting his club will go places.

The slow down in draft requirements will be particularly helpful to the Sox as it will permit their 1-A stars to remain in the lineup for some time to come.

Weakness at Plate Worries Sox Pilot

By BILL GRIMES

"During this short homestay, the Red Sox will get in plenty of hitting practice" predicted Manager Joe Cronin, "and, before we wind up our series with the A's and the Nats, I expect them to recover their batting eyes and tee off on opposing pitchers."

The Red Sox went down to a 7 to 5 defeat before the Athletics yesterday after a 16 round battle. Lack of clutch hitting after the first inning coupled with two home run wallops by Frank Hayes was responsible for the downfall of the Croninmen. But for a two base error by Burgo in the 9th, the Sox would have gone down to a 5 to 4 defeat in the routine number of stanzas.

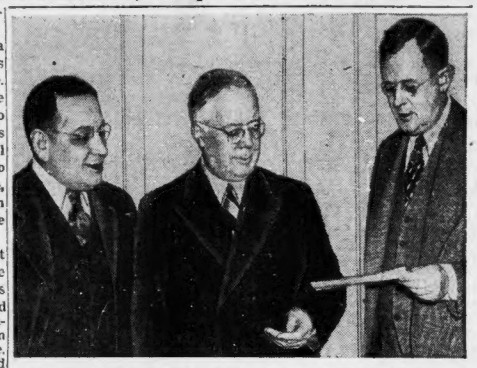
George "Pinky" Woods went six innings for the Sox. He started to tire in the 5th and was relieved for a pinch hitter and Mike Ryba took over for two innings and then Clem Hausmann went the rest of the distance. Woods was nicked for six hits and yielded three runs, Hayes' second circuit clout was made off Ryba with one aboard and the defeat was charged against Hausmann, who began to stagger in the 14th inning and was reached for six hits in the last three frames.

Connie Mack used up four pitchers, including Bob Bo Newsom who started, was clipped for three runs in the first inning and retired to the clubhouse in the 5th.

"Although we've lost four out of seven games," continued Manager Cronin, "I'm not as much concerned over our pitching as I am our hitting. In fact, I'm confident that the pitching will be all right. 'Tex' Hughson, who reported in Washington, will be ready in the near future, and will step up the pitching department.

"Because of the weather which has caused so many postponements, I haven't been able to see as much of Emmett O'Neil, Joe Bowman and Clem Hausmann as we planned. In the long run, probably it is just as well for it will give them an opportunity to get the feel of the big league before called upon for the acid test.

"I thought Hausmann did a fine job yesterday. He's quick and possesses a grand arm. I had no idea that Hausmann would be obliged to go eight innings, when I sent him in to take over for Mike Ryba. He hasn't had enough work to go that distance without weakening.



RACING RED CROSS PAYOFF—Judge James E. Dooley, executive head of Narragansett Park, presents check for $80,893.11 to Louis C. Gerry chairman of the Red Cross 1944 War Fund, as Victor Pedorella, U. S. Treasury Department auditor, nods approval. The money was raised April 14, 15, when the Pawtucket plant and all facilities were donated to aid the great cause.

Browns Get Jones

FRESNO, Cal., April 29 (AP)—Earl Jones, Fresno left-handed pitcher, said he reached a salary agreement with the St. Louis Browns and would leave tomorrow to join the American League club. Jones, 24, recently was classified 4-F in the draft. He pitched for Toledo in the American Association and Oakland of the Pacific Coast League last season.

Rubber Heels Saved Wood

MIAMI, Fla., April 29 (INS)—After almost a quarter century of eluding violent death as a speed boat racing champion, 63-year-old Gar Wood, of Miami Beach and Detroit, today awoke in Jackson Memorial Hospital to the realization that he probably owes his life to a heel.

Out of the stupor into which a bolt of lightning sent him spinning late yesterday when he alighted from his plane as a thunderstorm was breaking, Wood surveyed himself in a mirror and observed a black eye, and declared:

"It was lucky I was wearing rubber heels. They probably saved me. I hope my friends won't think I forgot to duck. I didn't tangle with Joe Louis."

New Challengers Enter Kentucky Derby Picture

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—Two new challengers nudged their way into the Kentucky Derby picture today at Louisville as Mrs. George Poulson's Broadcloth and River Divide Stable's Brief Sigh finished one-two in the featured $1500 Count Fleet purse.

The winner paid $14.20 in taking the mile event by a half length in 1:38 3-5. Dave Fergunson's Bell Buzzer, the favorite which last week defeated four ranking western Derby entrants, including Skytracer, finished third, five lengths back of Brief Sigh.

Apprentice Jockey Bobby Permane was the shining star at Jamaica, having the leg up on each winner in the divided Laurelton Purse. He rode Walter S. Horne's Tex Martin to a three-length win in the opening six-furlong division in 1:13 1-5, to return $6.70 for $2, and came right back in the next section astride Wheatley Stable's Irish Tar. The son of Hard Tack won by half a length in 1:13 2-5, paying $12.40.

It was Tex Martin's second win in three 1944 starts. Grand Party ($34) and Boiling On ($8.30) returned $171.30 in the daily double, as 22,938 fans pushed $1,992,817 into the mutuel windows.

In an interesting renewal of the maiden spring Steeplechase Handicap at Pimlico, the winner was Bridlespur, 6-year-old son of Hadagal and Hinda. Ridden by Jockey J. S. Harrison, Bridlespur won by 10 lengths over Shotlo in the 2-mile test over 15 brush jumps, in an ordinary 4:13 1-5. He paid $9.50. Justice Nap ($5.50) and Scotch Irish ($3.90) returned $14 in the daily double.

Max Marmorstein's Baroque, 4-year-old son of Reigh Count, scored his second straight victory at Narragansett, just lasting to win the $1800 Cape Cod Purse. He beat the Rumstick Lodge's Ample Reward by a nose in the 6-furlong sprint to pay $10.40, while Ample Reward returned $54.80 for the place. Sam Garfield's Shiny Penny, favored at 9 to 10, finished fourth, back of E. J. Daily's Johnny Jr.

The daily double, teaming Shasta Ko and Barnacle, was good for $68.60.

Cathedral High Leads Loop Without Practice

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Imagine having a team that you could send onto a baseball field without a single practice session—and have them win! That was exactly the situation that Coach Jack McCarthy ran into at Cathedral High School this season and right now, he's quite proud of the fact that his club stands at the top of the Northern Division of the Catholic League standings.

Not that Cathedral has a world-beater this season. The South End kids may even be tipped over tomorrow by Immaculate Conception of Revere but they're a scrappy bunch who won't give up.

They proved that in their opening game, two weeks ago. Coach McCarthy had laid plans for practice, then was gripped with the grippe. As a result, he didn't have a chance to see his team in workouts. Ordinarily, St. Patrick's of Watertown would have agreed to a postponement but because of a full schedule, it was impossible. There was nothing left to do but to go through with the tilt.

LEADING LEAGUE

Coach McCarthy contacted his players by telephone, met his squad for the first time in the clubhouse at 2 o'clock, issued uniforms, took the field at 3 and two hours later, his team was leading the league. Pitcher Ed Walsh had picked up just where he left off last season, allowing only two hits, striking out 15 batters and registering a 4-0 victory in his first start of the season.

"Walsh is a great little pitcher," exclaims Coach McCarthy. "He had been working out with his father so that he was ready long before game time. Last year, he struck out 20 batters in one game and more than 15 in three others. We were a bit worried about him last week when he only fanned 12 in beating Malden Catholic, 5-4. He passed five batters that day, too. That's bad for this kid southpaw."

STRONG HITTER

Walsh's battery mate will be Jim Linehan, a transfer from B. C. High where he was a regular outfielder last season. Linehan shows promise behind the plate but it's at the plate that he shines with Coach McCarthy. A left handed hitter, Linehan will find the short right field fence at Randolph st. grounds perfect for peppering.

With Linehan catching, Cathedral will have plenty of strength "down the middle." Jack McSweeney, playing his fourth year, will be back at short; Buddy Carey, a left handed batter, will be returning to second base and veteran Al Murphy will be in center field. McSweeney was selected All-Catholic League shortstop as a freshman.

Another veteran, Walter Moran, an outfielder last spring, will be at first base while Joe Morad, a newcomer, will round out the infield. Replacements will be John Costello and John Murphy.

Jim Kelley, with a 4-2 record last year as a pitcher, will be moving to the outfield again this season when not twirling. With Murphy and newcomer Tom Driscoll, Kelley will complete a speedy trio of gardeners who rate close to the best outfielders in the league. Paul Dullea and Gerry Abbott, who will also do some pitching, will be used as spares in the outfield.

Other Catholic League games tomorrow find St. Clement's at Malden Catholic; St. Mary's (L) at St. John's; St. Mary's (W) at St. Mary's (B), and Mission at St. Columbkille.

White Sox Out To Stop Browns

By Associated Press

It's up to the Chicago White Sox today to stop the St. Louis Browns' bid for a new modern big league record of 10 consecutive games won at the start of a season.

Since opening day, Manager Luke Sewell has been getting a superior grade of pitching in nine successive wins with seven complete games credited to his Brownie staff. Only Cincinnati, with seven finishers in eight starters, can top that mark.

Jack Kramer, who turned back the Sox with four hits yesterday in the Browns' 3-1 victory, had to be relieved on opening day after pitching 8 2-3 innings. Last Sunday Tex Shirley was removed for a pinch-hitter after seven frames.

Bill McKechnie's Cincinnati hurlers have had relief only once, and that wasn't the pitcher's fault. Cuban Tom de la Cruz had allowed only four hits in eight innings but was lifted for a pinch-hitter to give the Reds' bullpen its only action.

HEUSSER CLASS

Ed Heusser is Cincinnati's latest addition to the "Nine-Inning Pitchers" Club. He joined yesterday by sprinkling seven Pittsburgh hits along the route in a 2-0 triumph. Buck Walters and Elmer Riddle each have two complete games, Clyde Shoun and De la Cruz one apiece.

Rookie Bill Voiselle of the New York Giants failed to go all the way for the first time yesterday, but got credit for his third victory as the Giants topped Brooklyn, 6-4. When Voiselle weakened, Harry Feldman stepped to the hill with two on and nobody out and retired the side on five pitched balls. Homers by Pitcher Les Webber and Howie Schultz of the Dodgers were included in the losers' 12-hit total.

Mel Harder is within two victories of his goal of 200 major league wins after allowing 10 Detroit hits in a 2-1 Cleveland victory.

New York and Washington in the American, and St. Louis and Chicago in the National were not scheduled.

Sportsman's Park Opens Gates Today

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—Chicago's racing season opened today at Sportsman's Park, and withdrawal of only six of the 33 nominees for the top event turned the inaugural handicap into a double feature.

Twenty-seven horses were named for the two divisions of the handicap, with each section carrying a $2500 prize tag, the original value of the race, a sprint of seven furlongs.

Athletic Star Minus Leg

DALLAS, Tex.—Donald Kerr's artificial leg hardly handicaps him as an athlete. He lost in the Texas open badminton quarter-finals, but he proved to be a tough fellow to beat.

The 31-year-old New Orleans shipyard worker was a rope-climbing champion and for two years was cheer leader at Tulane University. He also could high jump five feet six inches and run the 100-yard dash in 12 seconds.

Kerr's left leg was amputated six inches below the hip after he had fallen under a train at the age of eight.

Joe McCarthy Shows Slight Improvement

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 29 (AP)—Joe McCarthy, ailing manager of the New York Yankees, continued to show slight improvement today.

Mrs. McCarthy said her husband, who is suffering from polyneuritis, spent a comfortable night, but is "still in a rundown condition."
